Mrs. G. F. Lattimore, Jr. Lutheran Choir Honored At Reception Have Dinner Party

One of the largest and most outstanding parties of last week was the one given Saturday afternoon by Mrs. G. F. Lattimore, honoring her daughter-in-law, Mrs. G. F. Lattimore, Jr., a recent bride.

The attractive home was exceptionally lovely for this occasion. As you entered the floral arrangements on the drop leaf table of white glads red carnations and red baby breath, the Magnolia leaves and nandina berries on the piano, the low bowl of red carnations and white asters in the hall blended in with the color scheme of the paper.

Mrs. E. W. Griffin welcomed guests on their arrival. Mrs. Arnold Kiser received guests in the living room. Mrs. H. S. Blackmer introduced guests to Mrs. Lattimore, Mrs. G. F. Lattimore, Jr., honoree, and Mrs. R. Shelton White, of Raleigh, a sister-in-law of the hostess.

The mantle in the living room held a centered bowl of yellow snapdragons and asters with tendrils of fern extending to cloisonne vases on each end.

On the tables were other low arrangements of snapdragons, gardenias, and carnations in shades of yellow.

Mrs. L. W. Hamrick of Boiling Springs greeted at the dining room door, also giving out madeira napkins, party plates consisted of pop-over shells of chicken salad, cheese straws, assorted nuts, heart-shaped pickles, bell shaped sandwiches and hot tea were passed by Mesdames H. R. Webb, George Houser, Garland Still, W. K. Mauney, Jr., Phillip Padgett and C. D. Blanton.

The dining table with the beautiful cut work and lace edged maderia cloth, centered with the entrancing arrangement of white double Ester Reed daisies, chrysanthemums, carnations and baby's breath with the antique silver candelabras, white tapers, silver antique nut bowls, silver trays of cheese straws was a ravishing scene of beauty. The silver service and candelabras on the buffet, the floral arrangement of white snapdragons and carnations on the chest added much to lovely dining room.

Mrs. J. A. Neisler received in the

The men of the St. Matthew's Lutheran church choir were entertained by the women of the choir at an informal dinner on Wednesday night, December 7, in the recreation hall of the church.

The table was beautifully appointed with Christmas decorations and the members found their place from individual place cards of tiny Christmas trees. Pastor and Mrs. Stender were guests of the choir. After a three course dinner, the banquet hall was upset and turned into a music room where choir practice was held, with the following members present: Mrs. James Simpson, Miss Ruth Randall, Miss Sylvia Randall, Mrs. Willie Grice, Mrs. Hildreth Sherer, Mrs. Frances Mitchell, Mrs. Helen McGill, Miss Helen Ramsey, Miss Mary Ann Crouse, Mrs. Joe Moore, and Messrs George Houser, Garland Still, James Simpson, Gene Gladden, W. K. Mauney, and Clarence Myers, Jr.

On the chest of drawers was a bowl of red baby's breath and fern with a cluster of red berries in the center.

Receiving in the den and passing cranberry juice from an Old English Tole tray were Mrs. H. R. Neisler, Mrs. W. L. Ramseur and Mrs. C. F. Mauney.

From the unique spray of love apples in the lustre pitcher on the desk, the pyracantha berries, used on the tables with the green leaves and the soft glow from the red candles, the cherry glow from the open fire made you want to linger on.

Presiding at the desk with the bride's register were Miss Mary Bell Teague and Mrs. J. M. Cooper. The candles in antique holders were entwined with lily of the valley and small white ribbons, a slipper with dainty flowers made a lovely setting for the register.

Good-byes were said by Mrs. Hugh Ormand in a room that was lovely with antique furniture. On the mantle the pink sweet peas and snapdragons blended in with the Dresden lamp and arrangement on the table.

More than 150 friends of the hostess and honoree called between the hours of 3:30 and 5:30.

Mrs. Arthur Hay Entertains D. A. R.

Mrs. Arthur Hay very graciously entertained member of the Colonel Frederick Hambright chapter of the D. A. R. and invited guests at her home on Wednesday afternoon.

The home was made attractive with lovely arrangements of yellow chrysanthemums, roses, and greenery. Nine members were present.

Mrs. Frank Summers, the regent, presided over the business session. After the regular ritual, minutes and roll call, Mrs. C. E. Neisler gave a report of boxes sent to Crossnore School and read a letter from the chapter Becker girl, Jacqueline Coffee. A message from the State Regent, Miss Virginia Horne, was read. The members also brought gifts to send to veterans in hospitals for Christmas.

The program for the afternoon was presented by Mrs. W. T. Weir, who gave a most enlightening and challenging discussion of "Communism in the United States." Mrs. Weir discussed the forceful methods, purposes of the Communists. She brought home the spread of Communism and the deep infiltration into our own communities. In closing, she contrasted Christianity to Communism and pointed out the great challenge to every American citizen.

During the social hour, the hostess served a delicious salad plate with accessories. Invited guests included Mrs. Ellerbe, Mrs. Short, Mrs. Thomson and Mrs. Harrill.
