Large Crowd Enjoys Garden Pilgrimage

The garden pilgrimage sponsored by the Kings Mountain Garden club Wednesday afternoon and night, December 21, was very successful and enjoyed by a number of people from Gastonia, Charlotte, Statesville, Cherryville, Bessemer City, Shelby, Bennettsville and Clover, S. C., Baltimore, Md., and Texas.

As you entered the home of Mrs. M. A. Ware you noticed Old Man Winter had left snow drifts in the corner of window panes. On the front door was a red Christmas bell on a background of long leaf pine tied with a large red bow showered with multi-colored balls. Small Christmas bells and Santy boots graced on either side of the stoop with urns filled with sprays of magnolia leaves.

On entering the living room the first thing to catch your eye is a center table arrangement of large white poinsettias sprinkled with gold, gold candle sticks with dark maroon candles that picked up the highlight in the wall paper. In the east side of the room on a low coffee table was a Madonna scene.

Left of the room against a solid wall of crushed mulberry is a gold long leaf pine Christmas tree with natural burrs and Christmas balls of gold, crushed mulberry and ice blue.

Over the mantle is a large gold leaf mirror with hand painted clouds and gold stars that lend support to a lighted angel just atop the mirror. On either side of the mirror a soft cascade of natural sprays and branches in ice blue and gold extend to the mantle which is banked with clouds of angel hair centered with seven large white tapers surrounded with Christmas balls in gold, ice blue mulberry and royal purple. From the fire place the lighted logs gave a red glow over the gold sprayed leaves and pine burrs.

Facing the bay window on the west side of the room, on the gate leg table a statue was standing on a mirror which represented a frozen lake banked in natural sprays in white of magnolia leaves legustrum, lucidum and aborvitum depicting a White Christmas.

Mrs. David Neill in a gold satin dress presided at the hand made golden register which was placed on a table with golden candle sticks with silver tapers, golden flowers in an ice blue bowl. On an end table tall golden candle sticks were used with a lamp that blended with the rest of colored balls gold magnolia leaves.

Mrs. J. A. Neisler, in a dress of gold lace, Mrs. J. L. McGill in a dress of winter white trimmed in gold, Miss Kitty Monty of Charlotte, in white with silver spangles and Miss Eleanor Myers in gold received in the living room. Decorations in the den consisted of natural greens and red nandina berries.

In the dining room the table was placed in front of double windows overlaid with a green satin cloth with the windows forming a background. A large arrangement of silver sprays of leaves and dried vegetables with red berries graduated to silver ivy that extended to a crystal punch bowl from which cranberry punch was served. On the other side of the table was a five branched candelabra with red burning candles.

On the buffet a silver service was used to display a flowing mixed spray of silvered natural flowers and sprigs tied on the handle of the silver pitcher was a huge red satin bow. On the other end of the buffet seven silver candles in silver holders were surrounded with silver oak leaves.

The tea service held a large shell in front of which was a low arrangement of silver leaves and berries. Assisting Mrs. Milton Fryer were Nancy Dickey, Iris Patterson and Shirley Arthur in dresses of Christmas green, red and white.

Approaching the Keeter home you saw old Santy in his sleigh and reindeer. The front door was outlined with Christmas green and colored lights. On entering the first thing to catch your eye was the stair railing with its ropes of holly. At the head of the stairs a table with a large red candle and greenery in the niche that could be seen from the hall was a scene of choir girls.

You were invited into the dining room for tea. Here the table was covered with a red satin cloth with grey lace over silver extending down each side. In the center a low arrangement of silver pine burs, sprays of sweet gum, blue candles and silver reindeer made lovely display. From one end of the table tea was served from an antique silver tea service by Mrs. Phillip Padgett.

The buffet was attractively arranged with silver holly, magnolia leaves, a three branched silver candelabra with blue tapers. A china compote with silver branches and balls was used in the china closet. On the drop-leaf table in the living room a family Bible was opened at the Christmas Story. Just back of this was a large white cross. On one side of the Bible was an angel choir of figurines. On the other side a low arrangement of white narcissus.

On the mantle was an arrangement of big star lights forming a tree flanked on either side with candles in graduated lengths, interspersed with silver berries and leaves. Christmas carols were softly played from the baby grand piano. On this a china girl with her violin surrounded with silver decorations. A candelabra with crushed mulberry candles completed a perfect setting for the carols.

The Keeter home was to feature decorations for the den. On entering you stood in awe at the elaborate garland of Christmas greens and Dilla Robbia that gracefully surrounded the mantle forming a peak in the center that almost reached the ceiling, extending to the floor.

In one corner of the room the golden sweet gum tree with the real bird nests, small birds, golden trimmings formed a picture long to remember. On a chest of drawers were brass candle sticks, a brass pitcher with sprays of green nandina leaves and red berries and a large red satin bow.

Featured on a small table were red candles, red and silver balls and a gay little red bird. The coffee table was attractive with corsages of various Christmas decorations. Each guest was given one as a souvenir. The valances at the windows and on easy chairs were in chintza with a nunning scene that blended in with the many ribbons, covered one side of the room, Mr. Keeter has won with his horses. Brass plaques and unique arrangements in the book shelves made one want to linger on. Others assisting were Mrs. W. L. Ramseur, Mrs. George H. Mauney, Mrs. J. E. Herndon, Mrs. Dan M. Finger, Mrs. D. F. Hord, Jr., Mrs. John A. Cheshire, Mrs. Vernon Crosby, Mrs. W. L. Pressly. Christmas carols were played by Mrs. J. C. Bridges, Miss Jean McClain and Miss Lula Mae Teague.

Mrs. Carl Mauney was to present decorations appropriate for a formal dinner. The dining table overlaid with a handsome imported cut work cloth, centered with an arrangement of white snapdragons, carnations, cut red poinsettias and red baobys breath flanked on either side with silver candelabras holding white tapers. The beautiful china plates, assortment of silver and glasses completed a table setting you would cherish for years.

The silver service on the buffet, the clever arrangements of silver candlesticks holding white tapers with the glow from candle light formed a perfect setting for a formal dinner.

The mantle in the living room was in green and red. A tall arrangement of winter greens and red berries with a large red bow on one end extended the length of the mantle. On the other end a cluster of Christmas balls was suspended. The glow from the electric logs in the fire place added a pleasing touch.

On the secretary was a white Santy by which was placed the register. On a chest of drawers the red in the lamp was further emphasized with a clever arrangement of red berries. On one corner of the console mirror was a large bunch of mistletoe tied with a red bow. On the table were red candles, red and silver balls. Nandina berries with greenery formed a centerpiece for the coffee-table.

The lighted Christmas tree in the den with the beautifully wrapped packages underneath the mantle banked in greenery with Old Santy in his sleigh driving the reindeer, the huge red stocking hanging from it overflowing with gifts, the letter above outlined in garlands of green from little Kay Mauney made you feel Santy had just passed. On a small table near the fire place the basket of fruit and flowers beside the easy chair was very inviting.

Mrs. Mauney was assisted in receiving and serving by Mrs. Howard Jackson, Mrs. Drace Peeler, Mrs. H. C. Mayes, Misses Ann Mayes, Shirley Houser and Jean Owens.

A Lifetime Resolution

Each New Year brings to most of us the desire to climb further up life's ladder of success. Many resolutions are made only to be broken long before the succeeding year approaches. Make and enforce this resolution throughout the year—that you will do all in your power to maintain an abundance of health. It will be a simple matter if you will periodically visit your family Medical Doctor and abide by his advice.
