Dameron-Hoyle Vows Pledged At Church

Miss Kathleen Elizabeth Hoyle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Garmon Ester Hoyle, and Lewis Wade Dameron, son of Mr. and Mrs. I. C. Dameron, were united in marriage on Saturday evening, Jan. 19, at 8 o'clock at the First Baptist church in Bessemer City. Rev. Fred Forester, pastor, heard the exchange of vows.

Mrs. T. E. Jackson, organist, and Miss Jacqueline Koon, soloist, presented a program of nuptial music prior to the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a formal gown of white satin made with tight bodice, low bertha collar with neckline of net, long sleeves ending in Calla lily points, and a full skirt which featured a deep tuck at the hemline that fell into a short train. She wore a shoulder length veil of bridal illusion which was caught from a halo of the same material made in a crown. Her flowers were a bouquet of white carnations tied with nylon tulle and lily of the valley.

Miss Jane Hoyle, sister of the bride, was maid of honor; bridesmaids were Mrs. A. G. Phifer, Mrs. Gene Nichols, Mrs. John Morgan, Jr., of Bessemer City, and Miss Betty Lou Philbeck of Kings Mountain.

Ira Dameron of Bessemer City, cousin of the bridegroom, was best man. Ushers included Henry Dameron of Shelby and Fred Dameron of Columbia, S. C., brothers of the bridegroom, Claude Buckner of Lincoln, and Gene Nichols of Bessemer City.

Following the ceremony, the bridal couple greeted the guests in the vestibule of the church.

The bride is a graduate of Bessemer City high school and until her marriage was cashier of Rose's Store in Kings Mountain. The bridegroom was graduated from the local schools and State College, Raleigh, and is now connected with the Soil Conservation Service in Yadkin County.

Following a wedding trip, the couple will be at home in Booneville.

Large Crown Hears Dr. W. Amos Abrams

Dr. W. Amos Abrams, associate editor of The North Carolina Education, state journal of the N. C. Education Association in his talk to the Senior Woman's club Friday night outlined the five-point program the United Force's will seek to accomplish through public support culminating in legislative action in Raleigh in 1953.

Dr. Abrams declared it short of miraculous, the stride made in education in North Carolina during the past 50 years, but he warned if we rest on our laurels now it will prove disastrous for the youth and future of the state. Pointing out that education increases not only the "earning power" but also the "yearning power" of a people, giving illustrations to prove that progressive educational methods and facilities are vital parts of a community's well-being.

The speaker dwelt at length on the five-point program advanced by the United Forces for Education: (1) Reduction of class size to 30 based on average daily attendance. (2) A salary schedule of $2,400-$3,600 subject to change in the cost of living index since January 1, 1951, with commensurate increase for other school personnel. (3) Funds to complete present school building program, the basis of need and ability to provide. (4) An appropriation adequate to the enforcement of the compulsory attendance law. (5) An increased appropriation not only to meet increased costs of current expense items but also to provide additional services.

The speaker of the evening was introduced by Mrs. Helen G. Neal, chairman of the legislative committee.

Mrs. P. D. Patrick conducted the devotional, using as her theme, "Happiness".

Mrs. A. W. Kincaid, had arranged the program, she presented the "Happy Trio", Miss Melba Tinsell, Miss Dolores Davidson and Miss Barbara Gault who delighted the group with several vocal selections.

Mrs. Grady Patterson, president welcomed the teachers, education committee of civic clubs, P.T.A. officials and members of the school board and others interested in education.

A social hour was held after the meeting. The hostesses Mrs. W. M. Ganit, Mrs. Ben H. Goforth, Mrs. H. T. Fulton, and Mrs. W. L. Pressly served punch and cookies in the lounge.

The refreshment table was overlaid with a white cloth, on one end was a beautiful arrangement of yellow daffodils and greenery. Mrs. W. L. Pressly served punch from a large crystal bowl on the opposite end, trays of cookies completed the appointments.

Margrace Club Met Friday Evening

Mrs. James Walter Gamble, James Bolin and Jim Medlin were hostesses when the Margrace club met in the club house Friday evening.

Mrs. C. W. Falls, president presiding. Following the devotional a social period was held, the hostesses served open face and layer sandwiches, cheese straws, cherry tart and coffee.

Mrs. Nellie McMillan of Sulligent, Ala., spent Sunday with Mrs. Annie Mae Howey and Miss Ollie Hartsell.

Corn farmers will need hybrids that produce from six to 10 bushels more per acre than those now grown, if present-day hybrid corn is to meet the demands of tomorrow's population a corn breeder of the U. S. Department of Agriculture said recently. Since the amount of land available for corn production is limited, increased production must come from larger yields made possible by hybrids and the use of better practices.

On the basis of preliminary 1950 census figures, the REA estimates that on June 30, 1951, 84.2 per cent of U. S. farms has central station electricity.

Mr. and Mrs. Kiser Are Bridge Hosts

Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Kiser were hosts to members of the Clover Leaf Bridge club Monday night entertaining at the Country Club.

Sumptuous arrangements of Japanese quince and camellias from their garden were featured in brilliant arrangements in the private dining room where three tables were appointed for dinner. In the center of each table was a silver comote holding red camellias. A delectable three course dinner was served.

During the remainder of the evening contract bridge was played. When scores were tallied Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dilling proved to be high scorers and received gifts.
