tioned in Japan until October. He found himself amazed, he writes, that the Japanese are most progressive and modern. "The towns are beginning to look very much like our own, even though there are many of the old Japanese houses," he writes.

Cpl. Owensby says air attacks have been few at Suwon, though Kimpo airdrome, near Seoul, gets considerable enemy raids.

He says the Koreans seem contented, in spite of insufficient shelter, food and clothing. The contentment he ascribes to many years of foreign rule, first China, then Japan.

Like others, Cpl. Owensby regards home as the best place of any in the world and is looking forward to rotation time.

Complying Firms To Get Emblems

Business firms in Kings Mountain who comply with the provisions of the Office of Price Stabilization in its efforts to prevent disastrous inflation are to be awarded OPS emblems for posting in their places of business, Chairman John Lewis of the local OPS Volunteer committee, announced today.

This emblem, printed in red and blue on a white sheet of heavy paper, carries beneath an OPS shield the legend "Co-operating to Hold Prices Down." It is designed to be posted in a place easily seen by the public, Chairman Lewis pointed out.

"We are delighted to receive these emblems for display in Kings Mountain," Chairman Lewis said. "The people of Kings Mountain, with a few exceptions, we trust, are complying with the regulations of OPS in its determination to prevent a runaway inflation that would destroy the nation's capacity for building adequate military defenses. We wish to honor those firms by awarding them these OPS emblems. Members of the Kings Mountain OPS Volunteer committee will visit these business places and award emblems to those found to be in compliance. We trust that any business establishment not yet in compliance will take immediate steps to comply with the OPS regulations in order that it may not find itself conspicuous in not having the emblem displayed. Firms not in compliance should communicate immediately with me or any other member of the Kings Mountain committee in order to learn what must be done to comply so that they can be eligible to receive the OPS emblems for display."

Chairman Lewis said that he had been informed by officials of the Charlotte district Office of Price Stabilization that some 11,000 such emblems are to be awarded in western North Carolina and eastern Tennessee, the
