ture six weeks of a "vacation with a purpose" for more than 200 young musicians from 10 to 20 years old under a faculty of professional artists on leave from top symphony orchestras and schools across the nation.

The camp, moving to Brevard in 1945, was founded at Davidson college in 1936 by Pfohl, who is conductor of the Charlotte and Jacksonville, Fla., symphony orchestras.

Students from both the Junior and Senior divisions of Transylvania are given opportunity for ensemble, theory, and private voice and instrumental lessons, in addition to playing alongside artist-instructors in concert appearances.

The weekly concert series with guest soloists continues this year beginning Sunday, June 21, featuring the Transylvania Symphony orchestra under Pfohl's direction, and each Friday evening, the Transylvania Chorus and Concert band.

A few of Transylvania's top students are annually chosen to remain for the Brevard Music Festival, opening in August for its eighth season.

Violinist Joseph Szigeti, Music Critic Olin Downes of the New York Times and Soprano Eileen Farrell are among the major artists to highlight the festival this year, August 7-23.

The festival will also feature the Brevard Festival Symphony and 100-voice choir conducted by Pfohl and Lester McCoy, well-known choral music director at the University of Michigan.

Don't Worry About Feeling So Lazy In Summer—It May Be Good For You

Do you worry about feeling lazy in the summertime? If so, don't let your conscience bother you. More leisurely activity, both at work and at play, means not only less physical discomfort, but makes you far less vulnerable to accidents and injuries.

According to studies of hot weather accidents by the Institute for Safer Living of the American Mutual Liability Insurance Company, over-exertion often plays an important part in drownings, sunstroke, heat exhaustion and many accidental injuries around the home or while on vacation.

Heavy physical activity in the hot sun can be really dangerous unless you are conditioned for it by an outdoor occupation. Those who work or play outdoors only occasionally should approach these pursuits with a certain degree of laziness.

Gardening and lawn work are among the most common activities leading to over-exertion, which in turn, may lead to sunstroke or perhaps an injury caused by thoughtless use of a garden tool. Take such work in small doses on hot sunny days and preferably save your heaviest work for cloudy days or cool evenings. Always wear a head covering when gardening or when doing lawn work in the sun.

Adults especially, have little business indulging in such strenuous sports as baseball or tennis when the mercury is soaring, unless, of course, they are professionals. Wise golfers will take short breathers after completing each hole. Children and teenagers should be encouraged not to over-indulge in the more active sports and games.

A factor causing many swimming accidents is staying in the water too long when you are unaccustomed to it. This leads to exhaustion. Many fail to reach shore. Rest frequently, especially when swimming in deep water.

Danger always lurks in the woods for tired hikers. Fatigue induces thoughtless actions which may produce such mishaps as sprained ankles, contacts with poison ivy, encounter with a poisonous snake, a bad fall, heat exhaustion or even getting lost. Plan your hike so you will reach a good stopping place before you are worn out.

Fatigue while driving on long auto trips, accounts for many fatal highway accidents, so here is another occasion where taking it easy pays dividends in family safety. Frequent coffee or rest stops are a must for vacationing auto travelers. However, being relaxed behind the wheel does not mean that you should not stay alert at all times.

These are only a few of numerous activities where a bit on the lazy side may save your life, after the thermometer hits 80 or 90. So don't hurry. Chances are you'll accomplish quite as much by mixing rest with elbow grease.
