TCP increases acceleration up to 15% within 400 miles

Shell-discovered additive, TCP*, blended into Shell Premium Gasoline, breaks through power barrier set up by pre-ignition and spark plug "miss"

... the greatest gasoline development in 31 years

WHETHER yours is a new car barely past the 2000-mile mark—or an "old faithful"—it's almost certain that you're getting less response than you should when you step down on the accelerator — as much as 15% less.

The power barrier

There's a wall between you and full engine power. It is caused by lead and carbon deposits that glow red hot in combustion chambers to pre-ignite fuel before the piston is in proper firing position.

These same deposits form on spark plugs and act as electrical conductors to short-circuit them. Then your spark plugs misfire.

These twin power thieves, pre-ignition and misfiring, are most active when you need power most, during acceleration or on hills.

TCP, the unique Shell-discovered fuel additive, corrects both pre-ignition and misfiring. It "fireproofs" deposits in the combustion chamber, prevents them from glowing red hot to pre-fire fuel. It makes the deposits on spark plugs non-conductive, and ends misfiring.

TCP breaks through barrier—fast

So quickly does Shell Premium Gasoline with TCP go to work that you'll feel the difference — up to 15% more power, more acceleration—by the time you've driven 400 miles. But engine deposits accumulate constantly. Continued use of TCP additive is necessary to maintain your power and performance gains.

Shell Premium Gasoline with TCP is the greatest gasoline development since the discovery of tetraethyl lead. It is available only at your Shell Dealer's.

*Shell's Trademark for this unique gasoline additive developed by Shell Research. Patent applied for.

Speeding Charge Faces Bumgardner

Trial of Harold Donald Bumgardner on charge of speeding, is docketed for Cleveland County Recorder's Court Friday morning at 9:30.

The Kings Mountain man was cited to court by Highway Patrol man G. P. Blakemore last Thursday night when Bumgardner stopped his automobile at the home of Charles Guyton. Blakemore said he had followed Bumgardner from Red Bridges' barbecue on Highway 74.

Blakemore said Bumgardner admitted he knew he was being followed. Passengers in the car were Mrs. Guyton, returning to Kings Mountain from the hospital at Black Mountain for a wedding in her family, and Charles Guyton.

Bumgardner, 20, is the son of Hazel B. Bumgardner.
