Extra Food Precautions Decrease Food Poisoning

Summertime is picnic time but it's also the season when food poisoning takes its toll.

According to Iola Pritchard, State College food conservationist, this poisoning may result from either conserved or fresh food.

USDA researchers say that cooked food accounts for most cases of food poisoning in hot summer weather. And it's food cooked in advance and not promptly chilled or kept chilled that takes the heaviest toll. Though cooking destroys most bacteria, it won't protect the food from contamination after cooking if the food isn't refrigerated.

It's the stewed chicken that stood all night on the kitchen table in its broth, or the stuffed eggs that were tucked down into the picnic basket for several hours, or the custard or custard-filled cakes left standing at room temperature that may cause you trouble.

Miss Pritchard says that food prepared in quantity for community picnics and family night suppers too frequently doesn't get proper refrigeration.

If you're planning potato salad, fish or chicken salad as a part of your picnic menu, make sure that it is well chilled and kept cool until time to use. When preparing these recipes in large quantity, place the food into smaller containers for refrigeration. If a large bowl of salad is placed into the refrigerator, it may not chill rapidly enough to prevent spoilage.

"Better not" are good words to keep in mind if you're debating whether or not to save some of that chicken salad left-over from the picnic. If it's been standing out on the table several hours, spoilage may have occurred — spoiling that you can't always detect by sniffing or tasting.

LET'S TALK IT OVER

By: Grace & Selma

There has been quite a bit published the past few years relating to sensible conduct on the part of the citizenry in event of an atomic raid. One bit of information that seems highly encouraging at first blush is the fact that in the first second of the explosion 50 per cent of all the radiation is released. Also, it seems that radiation does not linger; in fact, within two minutes of the explosion the deadly rays are themselves dead.

However, the one second after the explosion which represents half of the bomb's radiation dose is an awfully short span of time. In one second a person can hiccough, roll a natural, fall out of bed, or trip his mother-in-law, but finding cover in that same second might pose a problem. Authorities tell us to dive for the cover of a street-side curb or any little mound or contour in the earth. One second doesn't allow one to be selective. In other words, friends, hit the dirt!

A sprinter once negotiated 100 yards in 9.3 seconds. That means this superbly conditioned athlete might expect to range 10 and three-quarter yards in search of adequate cover, but for us average citizens, handicapped by high blood pressure, high heels and low speed, a modest yard or two is probably our limit.

Let's hope you never have to face the problem... but it pays to be prepared. When faced with the problem of selecting an appropriate gift, we are prepared to suggest some lovely floral arrangements which are always appreciated. Won't you drop in at ALLEN'S FLOWER SHOP and allow us the privilege of showing you samples of our art work? (adv.)

Couple's Bridge Club Held Meeting Friday

Couple's Bridge club members met Friday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Mauney on North Piedmont avenue.

Guests playing, in addition to members, were Mr. and Mrs. Grady Howard, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Hedden, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Bridges, and Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Fulton, Jr.

Mrs. Howard and Dan Finger won club prizes in bridge for the evening. During progressions, the hosts served colas and nuts and later passed a dessert course.

Gerberding, Anthony On USS St. Paul

FAR EAST (PHNOC) — Two Kings Mountain, N. C. men; Navy Lt. (jg.) William P. Gerberding, Jr. son of William P. Gerberding of 200 N. Piedmont, and husband of the former Miss Ruth A. Albrecht of Lesueur, Minn., and Charles B. Anthony, electrician's mate second class, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Anthony of 413 York rd., and husband of the former Miss Catherine A. Cunningham of Whipple, Ariz., are serving aboard the heavy cruiser USS Saint Paul which recently returned to the Far East waters to begin her fourth tour of duty since the outbreak of hostilities in Korea.

She is serving as the flagship of Vice Admiral A. M. Pride's Seventh Fleet.

During her three Korean combat cruises the Saint Paul ranged the length of Korea's East and West coasts and participated in the Hungnam and Wonsan evacuations. Her duties varied from giving direct gunfire support to UN's front line troops to the destruction of Red supply lines and bases.

HINTS TO HOMEMAKERS

KEEP FLUFFY NEWNESS WHEN DRYING BLANKETS — Expert research home economists say when drying blankets, Mrs. Homemaker should keep the following points in mind:

1. A shady spot in a gentle breeze is just right for blanket drying — do not hang the blankets outside in a high wind or in direct sunlight.
2. If possible, hang the blanket lengthwise over two parallel clothes lines that are 2 or 3 feet apart.
3. To keep that fluffy newness, when dry brush the blanket on both sides with a stiff brush.
4. Now for actual washing procedure, home economists say:
 1. Fill the washer with water. Add a normal sudsing synthetic detergent and run the water a minute or two until washing product dissolves.
 2. Stop the machine. Add the blanket and let it soak 15 to 20 minutes depending upon the amount of soil.
 3. Start washing action and let the machine run for 15 to 30 seconds (1-4 to 1-2 minute).
4. Extract the water from the blanket by setting the machine for the full spinning period.
5. Refill the washer with lukewarm water for rinsing — set the timer dial to fill for deep rinse. Agitate the blanket for only 15 to 30 seconds. Extract water.
6. Rinse a second time. Dry.
