Mrs. William Herndon, chairman of Christian Action, will have refreshments served each day at the school.

COMMUNION SUNDAY

The Holy Communion will be celebrated at Trinity Episcopal church, 303 Phifer road, Sunday at the 10 a.m. service. The sermon topic will be, "How Do You Find The Holy Spirit?"

Watch your American Elm trees this summer for symptoms of the Dutch Elm disease. This is a serious problem and could very well cause elm trees to disappear from the landscape, as did our native chestnuts, unless proper control measures are carried out.

This is a fungus disease and is spread by the European elm bark beetle. On infected trees the leaves wilt, often turn yellow to brown, curl and droop. Infected branches die and the entire tree may die in a few months or may survive for several years, depending upon the severity of infection.

While these expressions are symptomatic of the disease, positive identification is possible only through a laboratory test. If you have trees which show these symptoms, send a representative section of the diseased part to the Disease Clinic, Gardner Hall, State College Station, Raleigh, N. C.

There is some hope now of checking the spread of Dutch Elm disease and, perhaps, eventually, eradicating it altogether.

One of the large oil companies has developed an organic phosphate compound which does not control the fungus but repels or kills the fungus carrying beetles which spread the disease from infected to healthy trees.

The material is injected into the tree and becomes systemic. That is, it is conducted to all parts of the tree through the circulatory (vascular) system of the plant. It reaches the outermost twigs and branches where the beetles do most of their feeding.

Now get this. The material is highly toxic and can only be administered by someone especially trained to do the job properly, and observe the precautionary measures.

You might have a qualified shade tree man in your community who has been trained to administer the treatment.

KIWANIS CLUB

A movie made in Western North Carolina at the State School for the Retarded featured the program at Thursday night's meeting of the Kiwanis club at 6:45 p.m. at the Woman's club. Four members of the West Asheville Kiwanis club were guests of local Kiwanians.

Veterans Set Convention

GREENSBORO — The largest State Convention ever held by the Veterans of World War I, got underway in Greensboro on Friday, May 28th and ran through Sunday, May 30th, according to an announcement just made by Raymond J. Jeffreys of Raleigh, the Past State Commander and Manager of the convention.

North Carolina is known throughout the nation as the only state that treats its delegates to a really big celebration with free entertainment, free refreshments at the Friday night Reception, a free banquet on Saturday night, and no registration fees. All of this is made possible by the enthusiastic co-operation of the local Barracks throughout the state, the Greensboro Chamber of Commerce, the Merchants Association and the local merchants.

Congressman Horace R. Kornegay was the principal speaker at the banquet on Saturday night. Three Past National Commanders were also on the program—Emanuel Levy of Ft. Wayne, Indiana, Louis Brake of Mount Vernon, Illinois and John Bashara of Norfolk, Virginia. John E. Erickson, the National Legislative Director from Washington spoke on the Legislative Program. A special treat will be the presence of the only remaining active original founder of the Veterans of World War I, Inc., V. John Harris of Orlando, Florida. Among the other many Honor Guests were Martin and Anne Iverson, Past National Officers from Washington; Col. J. D. DeRamus, Manager of the V. A. Regional Office in Winston-Salem; and the "top brass" from all of the other veterans organizations.

A Memorial Service was conducted on Sunday Morning at 10 a.m. by Rev. Hugh E. Cherry, State Chaplain, to honor North Carolina's deceased World War I veterans who were among the 130,000 who have passed away throughout the country this past year.

ROTARY CLUB

Kings Mountain Rotarians will host the annual high school baseball award luncheon at Thursday's meeting at 12:15 at the Country Club. Clyde Sukeforth, manager of the Gastonia Pirates of the Western Carolina League, will be speaker. Mayor John Moss will present the award to the outstanding player.
