

G-W Launches Nursing Program

BOILING SPRINGS — Gardner-Webb College's Department of Nursing Education launches its first year August 30 with 40 students enrolled for the two year Associate in Arts Degree program, announces Dr. E. Eugene Poston, president.

Directed by Mrs. Grace Lee R.N., the department begins its program under the sanction of the N. C. Board of Nurses Registration and Nursing Education which recently extended provisional accreditation for 1965-66.

This means the department's planning, objectives, faculty and curriculum meet all state requirements for quality nursing education but that one full year of operation is necessary before the board determines permanent accreditation.

Cleveland Memorial Hospital of Shelby and Rutherford Hospital of Rutherford are cooperating in offering this program. These two institutions will share, with the college, in financial support of the department and will open their facilities for clinical and laboratory training of nurses. All classes will be conducted at the college where the students are fulltime and regular students in every sense of the word, states Mrs. Lee.

Graduation with an A.A. Degree is achieved in two years with proper grades and the student will then be prepared to write and successfully complete the licensure examination of the N. C. Board of Nurse Registration and Nursing Education.

tion and Nursing Education. Gardner-Webb College is one of few colleges in North Carolina now in this A.A. program of nursing, but it has been proven successfully in 29 other states. Dean Robert B. Isner states, "Three years of intense planning by college and hospital officials are behind this fall's opening of the department."

Both Dr. Poston and Dean Isner expressed delight at the department's preliminary accreditation and expressed sentiment that "the entire area will benefit from this major accomplishment in the field of medical education."

A pre-planned curriculum has been laid out for the nurses, including English 101-102, psychology, Integrated Science with concepts of Microbiology, physical education, Nursing 101, Growth and Development, Integrated Science with Concepts of Chemistry, Medical Surgery, sociology, Marriage and Family, Bible 101, Obstetric - Pediatric Nursing, Nursing 203, Psychiatric Nursing (six weeks summer work at Broughton Hospital, Morganton, N. C.) and clinical work at the two hospitals.

This program, as contrasted to the three year diploma program, allows the student to complete training one year earlier. To make this possible educational experiences are carefully selected with undue repetition in both theory and practice eliminated. Upon completion of the course the nurse is expected to be prepared to do bedside nursing. This training as an R.N. prepares a student to do private duty nursing, office nursing, hospital nursing, public health nursing, foreign or home mission work, Peace Corp work, industrial nursing or other fields.

The faculty of Gardner-Webb will assist the three-member nursing faculty by teaching related fields of basic education. The nursing education faculty, all with degrees in Nursing Education, will be announced at a later date.
