Coloring Eggs Is Old Custom At Easter

When your children search for colored eggs this Easter, they'll be renewing a custom far older than Christianity.

Eggs represent the new life that returns to earth every spring—around the time of Easter. The custom of exchanging eggs as part of the celebration began in ancient times. The ancient Persians often dyed eggs in the colors of spring and gave them to their friends as gifts. Some early peoples believed that the earth had hatched from a giant egg.

World Book Encyclopedia says the early Christians of Asia and other eastern lands exchanged eggs at Easter. They colored the eggs red.

Elaborate decorations became the rule in some eastern European lands. The Ukrainians are famous for their beautifully decorated Easter eggs. Each village makes its own design—fir trees, horses, priests' robes, flowers, cell towers, crosses, chapels, etc. Residents of Czechoslovakia, Poland, Lithuania, and other lands also are known for their highly decorated Easter eggs.

In England, friends often exchanged eggs at Easter, although nowadays, these usually are chocolate eggs. The Irish break the long Lenten fast by eating eggs at dawn on Easter.

Germans color eggs green on "Green Thursday"—the Thursday before Easter—and carry the eggs all day for good luck. On Easter Monday the young people have an egg-rolling contest.

In Italy, a priest blesses the eggs on Easter. The eggs occupy the center of the breakfast table, with other dishes arranged around them.

In The Netherlands, children go from door to door during Holy Week, collecting Easter eggs. Young and old alike play games involving eggs on Easter Monday. In Greece, World Book notes, people tap red eggs together as a greeting when they meet or Easter. The first person says, "Christ is risen," and the second replies, "He is truly risen." In Bulgaria, on Easter Saturday, people exchange eggs and baked almond cakes. In Hungary, boys sprinkle girls with water on Easter Monday and receive Easter eggs in reward. Customs vary from land to land, but colored eggs have been associated with springtime since the dawn of history.

Spice Cabinet

The plastic tops on the two-pound coffee cans fit the rims of many cereal bowls, and so can be used for storing food in the refrigerator.

It is fairly easy to get rid of any "stickiness" on varnished cabinet doors. Rub the doors lightly with very fine steel wool and paraffin oil, making sure you rub only with grain of the wood. Wipe dry with a soft, dry cloth. (This same procedure will also help remove surface marks and/or excess furniture polish from your furniture.)

You can eliminate that musty smell in your basement with slaked lime. Pour lime, which can be purchased at a hardware or lawn equipment store, into a large pan and place it out in the open in your basement. The lime should be replaced about once a year to remain effective.
