Attendance Awards Produced Bloopers

There were a couple of bloopers at the Lions club Tuesday night, as attendance awards were being distributed. When President Hal Plonk intoned, "Lion Sam Weir, 22 years," there was no response. Mr. Weir apparently was absent and the Lions laughed heartily.

Later Secretary Bill Moss explained he did not have the five-year pin due William Lawrence Plonk, second vice-president, due to the efficiency of Lions International.

"They wrote from Chicago," Secretary Moss reported, "that I had made an error, that William L. Plonk had received a five-year award in 1955."

Lions International was referring to William Luther Plonk, uncle of William Law-
