Negro spiritual; "O Sorrow Deep" by Gillette; "The Strife Is O'er" by Palustrina; "The Sabbath Day Was Past", 18th Century English; and "Jesus Christ Is Risen Today" by Lyra Davidica.

James R. Gillette, the composer, in an introduction to the cantata, wrote:

"Nicodemus to me, is one of the most interesting names in the New Testament. Interesting because so little is written concerning his life and works. Only twice—in the third chapter and in the nineteenth chapter of St. John—did his name appear. In a religious book published in England, much space is devoted to Nicodemus the man and his religious belief. Following are some of the conclusions:

1.) Nicodemus visited Christ by night. This was not unusual, for it was during these hours when discussions could be carried on with little or no interruption.

2.) Nicodemus believed in Christ and His teachings. The questions he asked at the night visit were for a fuller knowledge of Christ's miracles and teachings. Thus he could better explain Christ to the Jews and particularly to the Sanhedrin.

3.) From the time of the night visit to the Crucifixion, it is reasonable to believe he followed in the steps of the Master. He was at the Crucifixion and assisted Joseph of Arimathea in taking the body of Christ from the cross and preparing it for burial and placing it in the tomb.

4.) The true measure of a man's greatness is found in his love of God and his fellow man. These qualities were found in Nicodemus and made him great.

The complete story is told within the pages of this cantata. Nicodemus speaks to you."
