Weekly Health Tip

By WILSON GRIFFINS

Is essential food value often lost by improper storing or cooking of foods? Yes. Take leafy vegetables, for example — the U.S. Dept. of Agric. says: "One of the best methods of cooking vegetables to conserve maximum food values is to cook them only until tender in just enough water to prevent scorching. Covering the pan with a tight-fitting lid prevents the escape of steam so that vegetables can be cooked quickly in minimum water. This prevents loss of water-soluble nutrients such as vitamin C, the B vitamins, and minerals." The wise and economical cook will also use the cooking water with its valuable nutrients as gravy or soup stock for the family's good health.

Q—I began getting social security checks in July 1968. I earned $3600 before I stopped working full time and made only $139 a month from July on. Do I have to file a report of my earnings with social security?

A—Yes. A person who earned over $1680 in 1968 and got a social security check for any month in 1968 must file an annual report of his earnings with social security no later than April 15, 1969. This is required even if the yearly total is the same as was estimated earlier in the year. However, since you earned less than $140 a month from July through December 1968, you will still be entitled to the checks for those months.

Q—I plan to retire in a few months. What documents should I take with me when I go to apply for social security benefits?

A—You should bring proof of your age and information about your last year's earnings. A birth certificate or baptismal record made early in your life would be the best documents to bring if these is obtainable, bring in several of the oldest documents you can find that show your age. For earnings information, bring your last year's W-2 form, or if you are self-employed bring a copy of your last year's tax return. Finally, be sure to bring in your social security card.

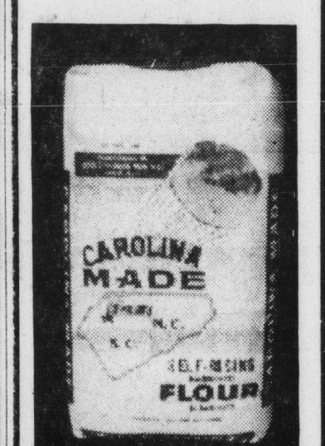

Various species of fish are known to possess power to inflict electric shocks which paralyze their prey. The electric eel is the most powerful, having two pairs of shock organs, one on the tail and the other on a fin.

The Coast Guard cooperates with the weather bureau by maintaining six vessel stations. Four are in the Atlantic and two in the Pacific. A ship stays at a designated station about 21 days and is then relieved by another vessel.
