Roses! Roses! White varieties should I plant? There are so many fine varieties available that the question boils down to one of personal choice.

I requested two of my friends, both retired and avid rosarians, to give me a list of the varieties they like best. I think it significant to note that only one variety, Tropicana, was preferred by both. This gives credence to the personal choice assumption.

Friend Number One: Mr. Lincoln (dark red); Garden Party (white); American Heritage (pink); Tropicana (orange); Helen Traubel (pink); and John S. Armstrong (red).

Friend Number Two: Tiffany (pink); Crimson Glory (red); Tropicana (orange); Queen Elizabeth (pink); and Pink Parfait.

Along with these varieties he likes two climbers: New Dawn (pink); and Blaze (red). He tells me that New Dawn is a prolific bloomer and about as free of insect and disease troubles as any variety he grows.

Another piece of information he gave me was this: "I never prune my plants until all danger of freezing has passed and bud growth is initiated on the stems. This permits me to prune more intelligently because I can see which buds are going to function."

This is a good idea. If you follow his procedure, more care will be necessary when pruning so that the tender buds will not be injured when removing old stems.

Many times I have reminded you about the desirability of fall plowing the garden area and leaving in rough fallow so that alternate freezing and thawing could break up the soil particles and destroy hibernating insects. This is especially important for the heavier soils. At the same time the soil should have been tested and lime and phosphate requirements plowed under.

If you have neglected doing this, it is not too late to have the soil tested, lime and phosphate requirements determined and turned under when you prepare the soil for planting this spring.

Carnations are called the Flowers of the Gods. The Black Hills of South Dakota contain many caves.

Production of rice has increased so rapidly in the U. S. that this country is now only second to Thailand in exports.

A kilowatt is 1,000 watts. Linen is probably man's oldest fiber. Cheese may have been made 4,000 years ago.
