

1970 Chicken Contest Set March 17th; Governor's Wife To Address Luncheon

Mrs. Robert W. Scott, wife of the Governor of North Carolina, has accepted an invitation to appear on the program of the 1970 "Chicken Cooking Contest" to be held in Raleigh, March 17, 1970. The "Chicken Cooking Contest" is sponsored annually by the North Carolina Poultry Processors in conjunction with the North Carolina Poultry Federation, Carolina Power & Light Company, and Duke Power Company. This year's contest will be held at 9:00 a.m. at the Food Science Building at N. C. State University. Mrs. Scott will speak at a luncheon following the contest.

According to Elaine Johnson of the North Carolina Department of Agriculture, who is coordinating the efforts for the contest, some 600 Tar Heel men and women have entered the contest. From that number ten will be chosen to represent the South Division and five will be chosen to represent the Junior Division at the "Chicken Cooking Contest" in Raleigh on March 17, 1970.

In addition to Mrs. Scott, Commissioner James A. Graham of the North Carolina Department of Agriculture and Mayor Seby Jones of Raleigh will appear at the "Chicken Cooking Contest" luncheon. Judges chosen for the statewide contest include Peggy Mann of WTVD-TV in Durham, Jane Fonville of WVAJ-TV in Wilmington, Gertrude Ramsey of the Greensboro Daily News in Greensboro, Wm. Ausley of WTTB Radio in Raleigh, and Clyde Asborne of Charlotte Observer in Charlotte.

North Carolina ranks fourth among the fifty states in the production of commercial broilers, and is the only state that holds its own contest to select representatives to participate in the National Chicken Cooking Contest. Contestants must be residents of North Carolina and cannot be professional home economists or professional cooks. Recipes are judged on the basis of taste, originality, appearance, and ease of preparation; not to exceed two hours. Contestants interested in entering the contest must do so before February 14, 1970, and may write to: Chicken Contest c/o North Carolina Department of Agriculture, Raleigh, North Carolina 27602 for entry blanks.

While these prominent women cannot participate in the "Chicken Cooking Contest" we thought that the North Carolina homemakers might enjoy sampling these favorite recipes of Mrs. Ernest Hollings, wife of Senator Hollings from South Carolina, and Mrs. Tim Lee Carter, wife of Congressman Tim Carter from Kentucky.
