By JANICE R. CHRISTENSEN

Building a house is one thing; making it livable is another. So families completing self-help housing in the Robbinston area, Graham county, will go to school to learn how to take care of their new houses before they move in.

"Classes will emphasize home management," reports Sandra Roberts, home economics agent, "and will include care of floors and fiberglass fixtures, use and care of appliances, how to operate thermostats and furnaces for best use of heat, and how to budget for housing expenses."

After families move into their new houses, extension agents will continue to visit them to answer questions and provide additional information, the agent says.

Self-help housing in Graham county is a cooperative venture between the families, the Quality Housing Authority and IBECE, contractor for the houses.

LEARN SKILLS
Even women who work full time outside the home would do well to learn a few basic home-making skills, including sewing and drapery making, believes Mrs. Evelyn Anderson, Mebane, Route 3.

Mrs. Anderson and other family members recently spent their "spare time" remodeling an old house.

The family saved money by making the curtains and draperies and by doing their own wall papering, points out Mrs. Bonnie Davis, home economics extension agent.

Mrs. Anderson finds sewing a relaxing, yet money-saving, hobby after she finishes her 8-hour away from home job.

CROCHETED NECKLACE
If you want a necklace to match your new dress, crochet your own, advises Mrs. Wingate Morris, Angier, Rt. 1.

The Johnston county home-maker first strings the beads, then crochets them into a rope type necklace, according to Mrs. Patricia Brown, assistant home economics extension agent.

Bobby G. Smith Aboard "Monticello"

USS MONTICELLO. — Navy Petty Officer First Class Bobby G. Smith son of Mrs. B. A. Smith of 818 N. Church St. Kings Mountain N. C. is in the Western Pacific aboard the San Diego based dock landing ship USS Monticello.

Enroute to the Western Pacific his ship visited Pearl Harbor Nuku's Lofa (capital of the tropical island kingdom of Tonga in the South Pacific) stopped in the Australian ports of Sydney and Fremantle and crossed the Equator.

At the Equator all Monticello crewmen who had never crossed the "Line" (Pollywogs) were initiated into the mythical order of Neptune Rex and became "Shellbacks" in ceremonies observed by mariners since the Middle Ages. He is a 1954 graduate of Central high Kings Mountain.

Area Scouts Win Awards

Boy Scouts sponsored by Bethware Progressive club, Resurrection Lutheran church, Central Methodist church, and First Baptist church won awards at the "Attleground District Scouters Recognition Banquet Wednesday night at Shelby Elks club.

Webel Scout David Barrett from Pack 94, Central United Methodist church of Kings Mountain, installed Henry Weathers, Sr. as district chairman and Joe Laney from Kings Mountain and John Ed Davis from Shelby as district vice-chairman. Ellis Monroe was installed as district commissioner.

Local winners were: Troop 93 of Bethware Progressive club, Emmitt Moss, Scoutmaster, the national camping award.

Pack 294, Resurrection Lutheran church, Tommy Yarbrough, Clubmaster, the national summertime pack award.

Troop 93, Bethware Progressive club, the 420 Honor Unit Award to the unit with quality program for boys including trained leadership, two assistant leaders, seven committeemen and 100 per cent subscription to Boys Life magazine. This also included a year round recruitment plan for new boys.

Troop 92, First Baptist church, Jim Yarbrough, Scoutmaster, recruit of the month and Troop 93, Bethware Progressive club, recruit of the month recognizing units for their part in having a year round recruiting plan to bring boys into scouting.

Pack 94 of Central United Methodist church, Raymond Holmes, Clubmaster, was recognized for being a Cleveland County Fair winner.

Bethware Sets Fall Festival

The Bethware school PTA will hold its annual Fall Festival Friday, beginning at 5:30.

All parents, students and friends are invited to attend, a PTA spokesman said.

There will be food and games, including hot dogs, homemade ice cream, cake walks, fortune telling, a shopping bazaar, and an auction.
