Weekly Health Tip

By WILSON GRIFFIN

You wouldn't expect a furnace to heat your home without fuel, so why expect your body to work efficiently in the morning without an adequate intake of fuel? This especially applies to youngsters, who are growing at a rapid pace. A good breakfast can make all the difference in the way they think and function. Tests which proved this were conducted at the Univ. of two a young volunteer students. For 5 weeks, these volunteers ate good breakfasts; the next 5 weeks they omitted all breakfasts. During each of these periods, late morning tests were made of the students' efficiency. In every instance when the students skipped breakfast they took longer to make decisions, were less steady and were able to do less work. Earlier tests with adults showed that those who ate adequate breakfasts had quicker reactions, did better work, and felt more alive!
