Are Honored

Dixon 4-H club community leaders—Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Green and Mr. and Mrs. Tom Berry—were presented certificates of appreciation from the Shelby Chamber of Commerce at the organization's annual 4-H Awards night Thursday night at the Cleveland County Office building.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Withrow of Eskridge Grove 4-H club were winners of the 4-H Leaders of the Year trophies.

Dr. Wayne Smith, 4-H specialist at N. C. State University, delivered the keynote address and cited the need for a dynamic 4-H program in the state. He noted that 65 per cent of the state's youth are not active in any organization.

County Agent Henry Dameron presented certificates to area leaders of 4-H and Eugene LeGrand, first vice-president of the Shelby Chamber of Commerce. Barbecue supper was served.

In 1970, there were 10.5 million children under 18 years of age living in poverty—6.2 million white and 4.1 million negro. This total represents 672,000 less than the 1969 figure and 6.7 million less than the total in 1959.

Senator Jordan introduced and led the fight for acreage-poundage legislation which is hailed as having saved the tobacco program; he was the leading figure in passage of the law which established the one-price cotton system benefitting cotton growers as well as the cotton textile industry; and he pushed through legislation improving seed quality, peanut marketing, and tightening the Wholesome Meat Act, all benefitting the ultimate consumer as well as those directly concerned. He works closely with producers of tobacco, cotton, peanuts, yams, soybeans, Irish potatoes, and other crops, as well as with all the state's vigorous farmers' organizations in helping develop sound federal legislation without which there would be chaos in the farm economy.
