We're Stanford and Mrs. John Davis, living with this problem 24 hours all of Gastonia; and one grand-a day. On top of that, we've had sewage backup down there. The city has done a good job in cleaning it up.'

Dilling, the only person to speak in favor of the rezoning, said he thought construction of his new building will mean improvement of the property. Rezoning the property to gen eral business means that no "heavy industry" would be placed thereon. Mr. Ham had ques-tioned the meaning of "light industry", noting that plants there now (two in the area are Oxford and K Mills) "don't give the appearance of light industry." Comm. Ray Cline of Ward 1 seconded the motion on the rezoning request.

Herman Greene, of 308 Maner road, said he is "very much in He was a former employee of favor" of curb and gutter for this area and told the board there seemed to be "no consistency in water and sewer taps in the area Lona Pearson Gaddy; one son, multi-states disaster emergency seemed to be "no consistency in water and sewer taps in the area —that taps would be made at one end of the street, a hole left, lat-er patched and that a program of "permanent taps" should be set up. HERALD Jesse Helms dug post-holes for the R-E-A the summer following his graduation from high school. He was paid 25 cents an hour, and when he went off to Wake Forest that Fall, he had a total of sixty dollars and 50 cents saved up... That's all. Those were depression days, and there was no money -- just opportunity for those who really wanted to make it. Jesse Helms washed dishes for his room and board at Wake Forest, and held down two other jobs at the same time-including one in a newspaper office over in Raleigh. He was three o'clock in the morning getting to bed-but he made it. Jesse Helms has never asked for the EASY way. All his life he has worked to help make things better than he found them. He was described recently as the citizen who has done more for crippled children than any other man in the history of North Carolina. This Jesse Helms is the man you can help send to the United States Senate - with your vote, in November.

commented, "I'm also in favor of street improvements in our area. We need this very badly. We have a water problem there with heavy rains filling the ditches. I feel curb and gutter will eliminate this.

Fred Finger, officer of Lambeth Corporation on Phifer road, askthe board to credit his compairy with $1.008 to its share of the street improvements for construction of some 288 feet of six inch water line the company had installed prior to the time the city annexed the property. Finger said the city now owns the property on which the water line is located.

The board passed a resolution authorizing the mayor to appoint a committee to study Finger's request and after another public hearing on a preliminary resolu-tion with respect to paving Williams street approved certificates of sufficiency, preliminary assess ment resolutions and set public hearings for August 14 on peti-tions for paving and curb and guttering of Pine View street in Crescent Hill and Caldwell street off Maner road.
