Sunday Nuptials Unite Terrys Two Couples Set Their Wedding Dates

Temple Baptist church was the setting Sunday at high noon for the wedding of Miss Phyllis Ann Putnam and Robert Steve Terry. The couple pledged vows of the double-ring ceremony before the Rev. Frank Shirley, minister of the church. The altar of the church was banked with palms, white glads and mums and lighted by Cathedral Candles in seven-branch candelabra.

Miss Cindy Alexander was organist for the program of nuptial music and Miss Judy Rayfield, cousin of the bride, was soloist. Miss Rayfield sang "Whither Thou Goest," before the ceremony and "The Wedding Prayer" as the benediction.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a formal gown created of silk organza and imported venise lace posed over faille taffeta and styled in princess silhouette with a high neckline finished with a lace Edwardian Collar and short cap sleeves banded with lace scollops. Garlands of lace extended from the neckline to the hemline of the A-line skirt. Gathered back fullness dipped to a brief train. Her cathedral-length mantilla of veil of English tulle was bordered with matching venise lace caught to a lace colot.

Little Miss Michelle Putnam was her sister's only attendant. She wore a floor-length gown of blue and white organza with empire bodice and long sleeves, ruffles and ribbons extended from the waist line to the hemline and she wore matching ribbons in her hair. She carried a mixed bouquet of summer flowers.

The bridegroom's father was the best man. Ushers were Ray Putnam, brother of the bride, and Steven Putnam of Charlotte, cousin of the bride.

The bride's mother wore a floor length dress of yellow organza with a purple orchid corsage. The bridegroom's sister chose a blue floor-length dress of polyester crepe with a purple orchid corsage.

Mrs. Robert E. Gamble of Bessemer City, cousin of the bride, kept a guest register in the vestibule of the church where the bridal party formed a receiving line to greet wedding guest after the ceremony.

Today, Merit's Who's Who is the largest student achievement book in the country and is used by colleges, libraries, and other institutions interested in youth achievement.

NOSTICK BAKING

An evenly greased pan will eliminate sticking when removing bread or cake. Here's how, according to extension home economics specialists, North Carolina State University. Hold your baking pan upside down under hot running water for a few seconds. When the pan is quite warm, grease it with your finger. It will always turn out evenly greased. Heat allows the shortening to flow evenly, so the flour doesn't stick in streaks.

The session will be held on the campus of East Carolina University, Home Economics Building, Greenville, North Carolina. Theme of the conference will be "Let's Make Tomorrow Together" exploring ways and means to develop better leadership within the organization.
