H. W. Johnson, Director of the Winston-Salem VA Regional Office said the forms and pamphlets explaining the "Modified Life - Age 70" policies and how to apply for it will be mailed to an additional two million young veterans as their term policies come up for renewal at the end of their current five year periods. Premiums on term policies rise substantially every five years. Johnson explained, making it difficult for some veterans to maintain full coverage as they grow older.

On the new insurance, premiums remain the same through the life of the policy, and at age 70, coverage is reduced by 50 percent.

Modified life age 70 insurance is available also to about 400,000 veterans insured under VA's modified life age 65 plan. These veterans have until July 2, 1973, regardless of health, to apply for the new plan which provides full coverage for an additional five years.

Veterans whose modified life policies were reduced 50 percent at age 65 can have them restored to the original amounts. This entails a slightly higher premium and a small additional sum to balance the higher cash value of the new, modified life age 70 policy.

Assistance in filling out the forms is available at any VA office or local representatives of veterans service organizations.

JESSE HELMS: A CITIZEN-SENATOR

"Jesse Helms is not one of your back-slapping, hand-wringing, affable garden variety political office seekers." — Virginian Pilot 7-2-72

Down in Monroe, where Jesse Helms was born and reared, the folks remember him who worked three different part-time jobs—afternoons and evenings, after school and all day Saturday. Those were the depression days, and times were hard—and Jesse Helms learned that America is a land of opportunity for those who make the effort. This is the same Jesse Helms who was overwhelmingly nominated for the United States Senate back on May 6. He's the Jesse Helms whom you can help elect to work for you in Washington. He's not a politician—he's a citizen candidate who is concerned about the future of your children. Jesse Helms is a man who has earned scores of awards because he cares about people and because he has worked and fought for the principles of freedom and justice. North Carolina knows where Jesse Helms stands. You can stand with Jesse Helms in November.
