

IN BICENTENNIAL REVUE Kenny Falls, left, as "Elvis" and Rev. David Kime, right, as "Hank Williams," were featured in Oak View Baptist Church Bicentennial Revue July 5.

Oak View Church Has Bicen Singing

Oak View Baptist Church presented a program of songs saluting the country's history during the past 200 years July 5th.

A salute was given to the men who fought and died in the Battle of Kings Mountain to open the musical program.

A men's group called "The Rebels" sang "Dixie" as a salute to the Confederate War and the part the South played. Glenda Spearman and Brian Hart sang, "A Home, A Family", depicting the early settlers. David Kime and Randy Hord sang "Rhinstone Cowboy" as a salute to the Wild, Wild West.

The Can Can Girls from the Nineties were Ruby Hord, Virginia Bumgardner, Judy Belt and Denise Hord.

The Roaring Twenties emerged and Harold Dean Farris sang "Has Anybody Seen My Gal?" while Laura Kime, Lisa Roark and Linette Perdue danced the Charleston. Harold Farris gave a rendition of Ruby Valee's "Winchester Cathedral."

The Thirties saw Leigh Linderman and Joan Green portraying Margaret Mitchell's famous "Gone With The Wind" characters, Mammy and Scarlett O'Hara.

John Caldwell, a former World War 11 prisoner of war, took the audience back to the Forties. He recalled some of those years as a prisoner of war and sang, "The Scars In The Hands of Jesus."

The Swinging Fifties was represented by Kenny Falls as "Elvis Presley" singing Hank Williams' song, "Your Cheating Heart" and Kenny Falls and David Kime Sr. sang the duet; "I'm So Lonesome I Could Cry." Paul Hord, Jr. sang "Hey Good Looking" and Johnny Cash was represented by Richard Bridges who sang "Folsom Prison Blues."

In remembering the Vietnam Conflict years, Harold Farris sang "Green Beret."

Highlighting the Sixties were "The Beatles" by Joel Green, Gene White, David Kime, and Randy Hord and the Supremes played by Kaye Leftwich, Jackie Grigg and Leigh Linderman.

The Seventies were saluted by Sonny and Cher, portrayed by David Kime as Cher and Randy Hord as Sonny.

A Gospel Quartet, "The Revelers", of Oak View Baptist Church, rounded out the program with gospel music including "A Mansion Over the Hilltop" and a medley of old-fashioned hymns.

The program was concluded with everyone standing and repeating The Pledge of Allegiance. Rev. David Kime offered prayer for our country and the future.

Musicians for the program were Carl Grigg on piano, Eddie Leftwich on guitar and Aaron Belt on drums. Directors were Carl Grigg and Mrs. David Kime.

Rescuers Planning Big Sale

The Kings Mountain Rescue Squad is planning a rummage and bake sale at the community center on Sat., Aug. 14 from 8 a. m. to 11.

The sale will be held rain or shine in the gymnasium. Rescuers are requesting donations of household items to be sold at the sale. Citizens who have odds and ends of items they wish to donate to the squad may do so by calling 739-2077 or 739-3071. Rescuers will pickup the donations.

The bake goods will be made by members of the ladies rescue auxiliary. Cupcakes, pastry, coffee and soft drinks will be sold.

Proceeds will go toward the new ambulance fund.

Wanza Back From Iowa

Wanza (Mrs. I. C.) Davis is back from Cedar Falls, Iowa, where she was among 400 educational secretaries attending the Bicentennial Conference and Institute of the National Association of Educational Secretaries on the campus of the University of Northern Iowa.

Mrs. Davis is secretary to Kings Mountain Schools Supt. Donald Jones. She was chairman of the national awards committee and Supt. Jones served on the selection committee.

Mrs. Davis was also among four new members named to the group's board of directors and installed along with new officers at the Saturday night banquet.

Following the Bicentennial theme, the conference got into full swing with a "Continental Congress" at which Mildred Hughes, NAES president, presided.

Courses offered during the five-day institute included management by objectives, management of human resources, humanities, the metric system, death and dying, publication and design, astronomy and communication.

VERLEE MASK

Mrs. Verlee Roberts Mask has returned home after serving as a delegate from the Cleveland County Chapter of the NCAAP to the national convention in Memphis, Tennessee.

The convention was a week-long event.

While in Memphis, Mrs. Mask was entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Marsh Campbell, former Kings Mountain residents, at a three-course dinner. Mr. Campbell is son of Rev. and Mrs. M. L. Campbell of Kings Mountain.
