YOU ASKED FOR IT — WBTV's Andrew Schorr, right, fires a question to Kings Mountain's Pop Foster during a Carolina Camera interview Thursday at Kings Mountain Country Club. Schorr said his appointment with Pop was one of the most enjoyable afternoons he's ever spent.

Pop Makes The Spotlight

Hemrick wanted one more drive just to make sure he had a good shot on film, but Pop had already hit all his balls. Hayne Nelsler broke open a brand new Titleist, Pop teed it up and pushed it into the woods. "I didn't think I could hit that Titleist," he quipped.

Pop rolled right along with birdies and pars until he arrived on the par five, 18th hole, where Schorr wanted to get some facial expressions and asked Pop to just lay down several balls and hit them with his favorite five iron.

After several perfect shots, Schorr asked Pop to play a make-believe game in which Pop would just pretend he had hit the ball, then look down the fairway as if to follow its flight.

"Just swing, then give me a facial expression like it was the greatest shot you've ever made," said Schorr.

Pop swung, looked down the fairway, smiled and said, "that's the greatest shot I've ever made."

Stop the camera. The topper of the day, and one of the greatest quotes of all time, came following the action, when Schorr did his interview on the 16th tee.

Pop had just told how he had gotten interested in golf, how he used to be a fisherman but the fish quit biting when Nixon was elected President.

"Well, Pop, when you can come out here and shoot your age at 72, just think how good you'd have been had you started at a younger age," Schorr said. "No doubt about it," replied Pop, "If I'd started younger, I would have been one of the best golfers that ever lived."

You know. He just may be right.

might," said Jones, "and I just hope they keep on in the direction they're going."

"Overall," Jones added, "we did a good job but I don't feel like Olympic is as strong as some of the teams we'll be playing in the Southwestern Conference."

As far as the jayvees, Jones said he was highly pleased with their performance. He singled out Avery Smith and Maurice Jamerson at halfbacks, Jeff Cloninger at quarterback and Glenn Carroll at guard.

Meanwhile, as the Mountaineers wind down their pre-season drills, several players are suffering injuries and are doubtful starters at this time.

Linebacker Scott Ellis has been bothered with pulled muscles in his back and will probably sit out Friday's opener. If Ellis is not ready, Kale Goins will move into a starting slot.

KM's other senior linebacker, Bruce Valentine, has a toe injury but Jones is hopeful he'll be ready. "We'll be in bad shape if we go up there without a linebacker," Jones said.

Guard Richard Van Dyke has a cut chin which required five stitches, Jones said, but he should be ready to play.

Walter Floyd, also a guard, has been out of practice for over a week due to a health problem but Jones is also hopeful he'll be well by Friday.
