

National Education Week Event

Open House At Senior High Monday

The week of Nov. 13-19 is National Education Week across America and Monday night in Kings Mountain the senior high is holding open house for parents and citizens.

Principal Forrest Wheeler will host the opening meeting beginning at 6:30 p. m. in Barnes Auditorium to welcome the visitors, then will turn the program over to Kings Mountain District Schools Supt. William Davis.

The local board of education, along with the two new members elected Tuesday, will be invited to attend the open house. Supt. Davis will offer remarks on the Kings Mountain schools.

Myers Hambricht and Mrs. Claude Lavender, teachers at the senior high, will co-host the program, which includes entertainment by the musical group consisting of teachers and administrators from the local system.

Following the auditorium program, parents will be escorted to the home rooms of their student-children and will meet the teachers and be given their youngster's school schedules. The parents will also be taken to the various classes their children attend to meet the teachers. A guided tour of the senior high facilities is also offered to both the parents, visitors and education board members.

Refreshments will be served following the tour. This portion of the program is sponsored by the schools Food Service Class, sponsored by Mrs. Peggy Baird.

Following the open house program the board of education will hold its regular monthly meeting, beginning at 7:30 p. m., in Barnes Auditorium.

City To Receive More CD Funds

Kings Mountain will definitely take part in the renewed federally funded Community Development Block Grants program.

Mayor John Moss met with HUD officials in Atlanta Tuesday to discuss the new three-year CD program and to determine guidelines and fund totals available.

"Kings Mountain's applications and programs under CD for the past two years were outstanding," Mayor Moss said, "according to what I learned in Atlanta. I also found out that guidelines are more flexible under the new bill."

The mayor said beginning with this year's CD applications, the city is entitled to apply for additional funding under the small cities program. The new CD bill means the city can augment the CD money already allocated for this year.

There are three points to consider in applying for the new funds, the mayor said; competitive programs, well-rounded applications and citizens participation and program implementation of programs.

KIWANIS PROGRAM

The Kings Mountain Little Theatre will present a preview of its coming production during tonight's Kings Mountain Kiwanis Club dinner-meeting. The club meets at 6:45 p. m. at the KM Woman's Club Building, E. Mountain St.
