

If You're Lost, Who Will Look For You?

If you get lost hunting in the mountains, or your child wanders away from a vacation camp, who will come looking for you? Most likely members of the North Carolina Civil Air Patrol, Civilian Auxiliary of the United States Air Force, whose search and rescue missions have saved many lives since it was established on December 1, 1941.

Today marks the 36th anniversary of the Civil Air Patrol. To call attention to the work of its dedicated members, Governor James B. Hunt, Jr., has proclaimed the week of Nov. 27-Dec. 3 as Civil Air Patrol Week in North Carolina.

Hunt praised the Civil Air Patrol in his proclamation, saying its members "have given unstintingly of their personal resources, sometimes, even their lives, to relieve suffering and to safeguard the lives and property of their fellow North Carolinians and fellow Americans through the performance of aerial search and rescue, mercy missions and disaster relief." Hunt called on local officials to arrange suitable observances to honor the men and women of the Civil Air Patrol throughout the State.

The North Carolina Wing has been rated number one in the United States for the past two months based on training, participation in missions, and aerospace training for cadets, according to Colonel Eugene Harwell of Charlotte, Commander of the North Carolina Wing of the Civil Air Patrol.

The 841 senior members and 441 cadets of the North Carolina Wing give unselfishly of themselves and their time to protect the lives and property of North Carolinians, Harwell said. We are pleased that Governor Hunt has recognized the efforts of the Civil Air Patrol members with his proclamation.

The Civil Air Patrol was established nationally on Dec. 1, 1941, one week before the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor. The organization was the result of worry and efforts on the part of hundreds of aviation-minded private citizens who could foresee war coming and wanted to contribute their aircraft and efforts in the nation's civilian defense efforts.

During the war, its members flew patrol missions off the Atlantic and Gulf coasts looking for enemy submarines; conducted border patrol duty along the Mexican border; acted as aerial couriers carrying mail, light cargo and passengers, thus saving the time and expense of military planes; towed targets for aerial gunnery practice; and flew hundreds of aerial search missions.

In 1946, rather than see such a useful organization die, Congress chartered Civil Air Patrol as a non-profit, humanitarian corporation whose members would be all volunteers. In 1948, Congress made Civil Air Patrol an official auxiliary of the Air Force and gave the Air Force authority to help it conduct its activities and lend it a degree of assistance.

The men and women of the North Carolina Civil Air Patrol have flown twenty-one U. S. Air Force authorized missions and four State authorized missions since January of this year.

Women Have Special Problems

Women have special problems with high blood pressure, according to Harriett F. Dustan, M. D., president of the American Heart Association.

For instance, some women who have never had high blood pressure may develop it rapidly during pregnancy. On the other hand, women who are taking pills to avoid pregnancy, may show an increase in blood pressure. And many women find that as they get older and pass the menopause, their blood pressure rises. Finally, black women are the most susceptible of all population groups to high blood pressure, which is the biggest cause of death among blacks.

Dr. Dustan makes these points in an article, "What Every Woman Should Know About High Blood Pressure," which is available without charge from the North Carolina Heart Association. Aside from the risks of high blood pressure which women face just because they are women, they share with men the possibility of developing it if their family has a history of the disease and of passing the tendency along to their children. She writes, "The fact is, doctors don't know

Cleveland County is among 56 counties in North Carolina declared eligible for Small Business Administration loans (SBA) to farmers according to Agriculture Commissioner James A. Graham.

"Farmers in these counties, who suffered physical damage due to crop losses resulting from last summer's drought are eligible for SBA loans. The interest rate will be 3 percent for the $250,000 and six and five-eighths percent for any amount over that up to a maximum of $500,000," the commissioner explained. "The deadline for these physical disaster loan applications has been extended to Dec. 30, 1977."

Under the program about 50 percent of an SBA loan may be used to cover a farmer's anticipated, established, normal crop yield at planting season's prices. The remainder will be disbursed to cover production costs of a new crop.

The first part of a loan may be used to pay outstanding obligations due to loss of crops and livestock including accounts, loans, notes and reasonable operating and living expense. The remainder will be used for production cost of a new crop.

Eligible counties are: Alamance, Alexander, Anson, Bladen, Cabarrus, Caswell, Catawba, Chatham, Cleveland, Cumberland, Davidson, Davie, Duplin, Durham, Edgecombe, Forsyth, Franklin, Gaston, Granville, Greene, Guilford, Halifax, Harnett, Hoke, Iredell, Johnston, Lee, Lenoir, Lincoln, Mecklenburg, Montgomery, Moore, Nash, Northampton, Orange, Person, Pitt, Polk, Randolph, Richmond, Robeson, Rockingham, Rowan, Rutherford, Sampson, Scotland, Stanly, Stokes, Surry, Union, Vance, Wake, Warren, Wayne, Wilson, and Yadkin.

Application for SBA loans may be made from 8:15 a. m. to 4:30 p. m. Monday through Friday at SBA offices in Charlotte, Clinton, Greensboro, Greenville and Raleigh.

Recipes From Mabel's Kitchen

When Emmett and Mabel Ross' grandchildren are home for the holidays they particularly enjoy the goodies Mrs. Ross serves up in her kitchen.

Some of Donna, Melissa and Chip Ross' favorites are presented today for Mirror-Herald readers to enjoy. They are the children of Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Ross.

When we used a feature story in a recent edition on Mrs. Ross' cooking ability, we neglected to use names of all the grandchildren.

The Rosses are looking forward to a big family get-together during the Christmas holidays and Donna, Melissa and Chip already have their hands in the pot for some of these tasty goodies.
