Church Class Takes Study Trip

Six members of the Confirmation Class of Central United Methodist Church and three adult leaders concluded their period of study with a trip to Lake Junaluska, assembly grounds for the Southeast jurisdiction of United Methodist Churches. The group departed at 8:30 a. m. Saturday and arrived at 11. They toured the World Methodist Council Building, which houses the Museum of Historical Artifacts of Wesleyan Heritage. This building contains one of the largest collections of Methodist Church History and other related documents. After luncheon in Waynesville, the group returned to the church about 5:30. The Confirmation Class was received into membership during Sunday morning services by the congregation, led by Rev. Robert Boggan, Jr. Members of the Class included Rainey Haigler, Randy Masters, Janet Reavis, Joan Reavis, Wendy Smith and Robin Warlick.

Rape On The Increase

By MIKE SANDERS
Crime Prevention Officer

Rape — Every woman is a potential victim. Regardless of age, race, social standing, if you are a woman, you should be concerned with rape. It can happen anytime and anywhere, and it may happen to you.

In the past few years, rape has increased by 25 percent. It is the most seriously under-reported crime. An estimated ten rapes may take place before one is reported to the police or hospital.

It has been reported that this crime has been occurring in different areas of the state. Men have been posing as telephone repairmen. Don't be afraid to ask for identification. If he refuses or hesitates, don't let him in. Call your local law enforcement agency immediately.

In the following paragraphs, I will try to give you some tips on how to protect yourself against rape at home.

Make sure you lock all windows and doors with good locks. In the event you lose your keys or move into a previously occupied dwelling, install new locks. If windows are on the ground floor or located near a fire escape, have some type of bars installed.

Hang blinds or curtains on every window. Don't leave any window without some type of protection. Have a peephole on your door, so you can identify a caller. Ask any service man or anyone you may be in question about, for some type of identification. If you still have any question or doubt his identity in any way, don't let him in.

When listing your name on your mailbox, on the door or in the telephone book, list only a first initial and last name. Don't use your full name.

Know your neighbor. You may need a helping hand if an emergency should arise.

If by mistake you do let someone in, pretend you're not alone. Mention that your husband is asleep or in another part of the house.

Vary your routine as often as you can. Most rapes are planned. Don't give anyone a regular pattern to follow.

If you go out after dark, or you know it will be dark on your return, leave a light on. Come back home to a well lit entrance.

If you are about to get on an elevator, but you feel a man is waiting for you, don't get on. If you do get on and find yourself "trapped," push all buttons, get off at the next stop.

Be aware of places like doorways, under stairs or any place that men may hide.

When you do return home, have keys ready before getting to the door, preferably, get your keys ready before getting out of the car. If you feel you are being watched, take a detour and don't let him find out where you live. Maybe there is a neighbor or someone you know whom you could go visit until you are sure the way is clear for you to return home.

Remember this! If you plan to be away from your home for a period of 24 hours or more, please contact the Kings Mountain Police Department Crime Prevention Office at 739-3636 or 739-7444 for a Home Security Check.
