

Jaycees Attended Leadership College

Kings Mountain Jaycees President David Dilling and four other chapter officers attended the North Carolina Jaycees Local Officers Leadership College June 1-3 at the University of North Carolina at Charlotte. The Local Officers Leadership College is held annually to train incoming officers in the management skills and programming responsibilities needed to better serve the community.

Over 700 Jaycees from all across North Carolina attended the three day session according to Maurice Wilson, President of the North Carolina Jaycees. The officers received instruction in effective communications, community development programs, public relations, the training of committee chairman and the running of effective meetings which were but a few of the topics covered.

ROTARY

John Howze of Transcontinental Gas Pipeline Corps will be guest speaker at Thursday's meeting of Kings Mountain Rotary Club at 12:15 luncheon at the Country Club. Mayor John Moss has arranged the program.

"The Kings Mountain Jaycees officers and their president, David Dilling, are to be commended," said president Wilson, "for showing the initiative to attend this years Leadership College. I'm sure the ideas and techniques they learned will prove a real benefit to both the members of their chapter and to the community the Kings Mountain Jaycees serve."

Other Kings Mountain officers attending the Leadership College were: Corky Fulton-Secretary; Larry Hamrick, Jr. - External Vice President; Mike Neely - Treasurer; Allan Propst - Internal Vice President.
