Sandi Rhea Guest Speaker

Sandi Rhea, a designer on the Zotos Creative Design Team and a Kings Mountain beautician, will be guest speaker at Tuesday night's meeting of the Highlighters Singles Club at 7 p.m. at Central United Methodist Church.

A covered dish supper will be served and all singles of the area are invited to attend.

Ms. Rhea is a Kings Mountain native and owns and operates Scissors and Styles on Shelby Rd.

According to Helen Belcher, publicity spokesman for the club, Ms. Rhea "brings to her audience a fresh young approach to hair designing. Her 16 years of experience as a successful hair designer have given her a flair for the new, yet practical hair fashions. Sandi has had extensive training in coloring, perming and advanced styling."

Featured as a guest artist with Zotos Creative Designer Group, Ms. Rhea has traveled throughout the United States. She teaches private classes and in salon training in innovative design. As a participant in styling contests, she has won many awards in all phases of hair design.

Joint Party For Randalls

Kevin Clark Randall, who celebrated his 10th birthday Nov. 4, and his sister, Erica Heather Randall, who was four years old on Nov. 16, celebrated their birthdays at a joint party Nov. 9.

Refreshments were served to 25 friends and relatives at the Randall home.

Kevin and Erica are children of Mr. and Mrs. Merrill Randall of Kings Mountain and grandchildren of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Randall of Kings Mountain and Mrs. Charles E. Wharmby of Gastonia and the late Charles E. Wharmby.

Girl Scouts In Program

Two Kings Mountain Cadette Scouts, Dawn Morris and Cindy Adams, are home from a Girl Scout Wider Opportunity program which they highly recommend to other young women.

The ninth grade students were the only two Scouts from Kings Mountain chosen to participate in the program.

Miss Adams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Adams, was among 150 Girl Guides who spent four weeks in a unique experience called, "Almost Anything Goes." After a tour of New York City, the girls made an overnight hike on the Appalachian Trail, participated in an International Festival and sampled foods from all over the world, and treated 75 International Guides to an American Fourth of July party. Camping in tents in New Haven, Conn. was not an unfamiliar experience for the Girl Scouts but a new experience since there were so many girls involved. Cindy, the only representative from the Pioneer Girl Scout Council, lived with two host families for two weeks. Mrs. Carol Bettencourt hosted her at her beach home in Old Lyme, Conn. and Dr. and Mrs. Robert Giddings were her hosts at their solar home in Cheshire, Conn. The Giddings lived on a farm and Cindy enjoyed making his rounds with him, at his farm and in his position as a veterinarian. Cindy said she enjoyed meeting Girl Scouts from all over the world and exchanging keepsake mementoes of their trip. There were Girl Scouts from Africa, Netherlands, Sweden, Nigeria, Israel, Liberia, India and Hong Kong.

Dawn Morris, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Morris, was among 60 girls from the United States who participated in "The Kansas Sampler," two weeks in Kansas where Dawn had her first taste of life on a ranch, pitched her own tent and cooked her own meals on the trail, lived in a dorm at Washburn University, and on a 760 acre ranch with her host family, Mr. and Mrs. Dale Handley of Onaga, Kansas. She tasted Buffalo barbecue for the first time and reports that "it's delicious and a cross between roast beef and barbecue." She rode 28 miles across the frontier in a covered wagon and toured the capital, Topeka, and visited the Judicial Center, among other points of interest. The girls enjoyed a picnic with Japanese students in Topeka and also visited the Topeka Zoo.

Dawn said that she and her host family followed parts of the Oregon Trail and drove over 100 miles to a rodeo but missed the signs and her group didn't get a chance to see a rodeo.

"I was always told that Kansas was flat but it isn't," said Dawn, who said she hoped to return to Kansas someday and revisit some of the interesting places she had seen.

Meeting new friends was a good experience for both girls, who are members of Cadette Troop 4, made their first airplane ride and took their first long trip away from home for the first time.

"It was really great and a wonderful experience for both of us," said Dawn and Cindy.

Woman Dies In Wreck

A Cherryville woman, Julia Elizabeth Allran, 21, of 402 Spring St., was killed Thursday night at 11 p.m. when the car in which she was riding came out of a sharp curve onto a bridge on Maple Springs Road, slid sideways into the left lane and hit an iron bridge rail, overturning down an embankment.

Kings Mountain, was treated at Cleveland Memorial Hospital in Shelby and released.

An autopsy to determine the cause of Miss Allran's death was conducted at Gaston Memorial Hospital.

David Carrigan, of Route 2, Kings Mountain, was listed by State Highway Patrolman Gary Mull as owner of the car in which the young people were riding.

No charges have been filed pending further investigation.

Funeral rites for Miss Allran were conducted Saturday afternoon from St. John's Lutheran Church of Cherryville, of which she was a member. Rev. Jack E. Smith officiated and interment was in the church cemetery. The family has designated memorials to St. John's Lutheran Church.

Surviving Miss Allran are her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gary Lon Allran of Cherryville; one brother, Chip Allran of the home; two sisters, Mrs. Clara Sue Bost and Mrs. Alice Smith, both of Cherryville; and her grandparents, Mrs. Alice Stroupe of Cherryville and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Allran of Charlotte.

Carpenter's Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

Fall Bazaar Is Saturday

The Kings Mountain Parks and Recreation Department will be sponsoring a big "Fall Bazaar" on Sat., Nov. 22nd from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. in the gym of the Kings Mountain Neighborhood Facility Center (Community Center) located at 208 North Cleveland Avenue.

All area residents are invited to join the festive holiday market atmosphere, which will have over two dozen local exhibitors. Featured in this year's bazaar will be baked and canned goods, pottery, ceramics, tile paintings, stuffed animals, calico items, woodworking, crochet and knitted items, macrame, wicket items, pillows, shawls, scarves, toboggans, gloves, dried flower arrangements, quilting, clocks, toys, placemats, napkins, Christmas items and more.

Refreshments will be available and entertainment for holiday shopping and browsing, will be provided intermittently throughout the day.

All shoppers making purchases at both concession stand and individual exhibition tables will be eligible to participate in a free door prize drawing which will be held at the close of the day. At that time a 12 pound turkey, donated by Harris Teeter and a canned ham, donated by Mac's Grocery, will be awarded. Winners must be present to claim their prizes.

For more information on this year's "Fall Bazaar" call the Neighborhood Facility Center at 739-3549 or the Parks and Recreation Department at 739-6995.
