

KM Cagers Open Up Monday

SPORTS

Kings Mountain High will open 1980-81 basketball play Monday night when the varsity teams travel to West Charlotte.

The two clubs return to Kings Mountain on Wed., Nov. 26, to host West Charlotte in their first action in front of the home fans.

The West Charlotte doubleheaders will be the only non-conference action of the year for the KMHS teams. Southwestern 3-A Conference play begins on December 2 against East Gaston.

The non-conference bouts will give KMHS coaches John Blalock and David Brinkley a chance to see their charges under fire against a pair of teams that are usually contenders in the rugged Southwest 4-A Conference.

The Mountaineers, 8-12 a year ago, are expected to be one of the top two teams in the SWC this winter along with defending state 3-A champion R-S Central. The KMHS girls are young and inexperienced, but are talented, and Coach Brinkley feels they could develop into one of the best teams in the league.

Coach Blalock returns four of his five starters from last year, including Terrence Blalock, Gerald Byers, Demetrius Goode and Carl Smith. The fifth starter, replacing most valuable player Eric Dixon, who graduated, will be Todd Wray.

Blalock also has a host of juniors who helped the jayvee team win the conference crown last year. They include Jimmy Brown, Vince Roseboro, Bruce Young, Tim Bell, Novelle Young, Wayne Brown and Paul Ingram.

The Mountaineers expect to field a quick, fast-breaking team, featuring one of the best ballhandlers in the area in Smith, a 5-10 point guard who was injured much of last season.

"We're still young, with four juniors in the starting lineup, but everybody looks to be improved and we should have a good season," Blalock says.

Blalock said the Mountaineers have been working hard on defense and developing a winning attitude.

"I feel good about this team," he says. "We're working real hard and are really expecting a good year."

Coach Brinkley has two of the top inside threats in the conference in seniors Sheryl Goode and Diane Williams, both three-year starters. Part-time starters returning from last year are guards Tammy Bolton and Bridget Glass.

Brinkley, beginning his second year at the helm, will be looking to a lot of sophomores and juniors for starting duty and key reserve roles.

"Inexperience will hurt us at the first of the year," he says. "We have eight sophomores but they have a lot of talent. They will have to help us out."

Others being counted on by Brinkley are Angie Bell, Glenda Adams, Priscilla Odoms, Arjuana Curry, Elizabeth Floyd, Gloria Campbell, Trina Hamrick, Rhonda Kimble, Angie Adams, Teresa Freeman and Linda Stowe.

Brinkley says he's been encouraged with the team's attitude and willingness to play as a team. He says the team is responding well to some of his newly-installed defenses, including a man to man.

"I believe if we play like we should, we can be in the thick of the conference race by the end of the year," says Brinkley. "Depth will be the biggest thing at the beginning of the season."
