Car Hit By Train

Rhonda Bridges of 212 East Texas Street, Bessemer City, escaped possible injury Tuesday night when she fled from a car before it was hit by an approaching train at the Kings Mountain Depot crossing on Piedmont Avenue.

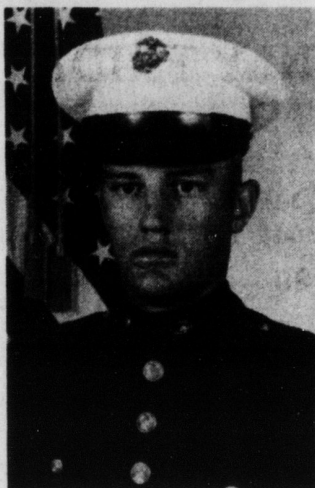

Miss Bridges was driving a 1977 Ford, owned by Terry Calo of Stanley, when, during a heavy fog, she ran off the side of the road and the car hung on the railroad track.

She and a passenger attempted the push the car off the tracks but had to abandon it when the train approached.

The car was damaged $2,000, according to investigating officers Mike Sanders and Bob Hayes of KMPD.

The train's conductor was Claude Johnson Jr. of Route 2, Easley, S.C.
