In addition, two KMHS coaches finished second in coach of the year voting and two athletes were second in player of the year voting.

Tackle Darryl Strong and safety Markus Hager were named to the defensive unit on the All-SWC football team, which was dominated by players from the championship Crest team and third place R-S Central. Crest landed eight players on the squad and R-S seven.

Bridget Glass, Kim Moss and Jamie Humphries of KMHS were named to the All-Conference girls tennis team and Glass was second to Shelby's Bonnie Wilkison in player of the year honors. KMHS Coach Ed Guy finished second to Shelby's Art Moss in voting for coach of the year.

Bernard Womic, Carl Smith and Jimmy Brown of the Mountaineers made the All-Conference cross country team. Womic was runner-up in voting

00 for player of the year and Coach John Blalock was second in the coach of the year voting.

Diane Williams, last year's player of the year, was named to the All-Conference girls volleyball team. She failed to repeat as player of the year as that honor went to Kim Connor of the league champion South Point team.

John Taylor of Crest was the football coach of the year and Troy Harris of R-S Central was player of the year.

The complete all-SWC teams include:
