Toastmaster's Club Is Meeting In KM

Foothills Toastmaster's Club is now meeting in Kings Mountain on second and fourth Tuesdays for a dutch dinner meeting at Cattletown Steak House and inviting local members to attend.

New officers of the club, installed Tuesday, are Vernon Perry of Gastonia, president; Bucky Sutton, past District 37 Governor, now of Greenville, S.C., Educational Vice President; Robert Hamilton of Lincolnton, Administrative Vice President; Gene White of Kings Mountain, secretary; Morris Page of Shelby, treasurer; and Larry Ellison of Kings Mountain, sergeant-at-arms.

Western District Governor O.L. Shields of Asheville and Educational Lt. Governor David

Roberts were installing officers for the program which featured prepared speeches by John Shepherd, "Simpleton Rides Again," an icebreaker address by Gene White, who was attending his second meeting, Vernon Perry, who spoke on "Save The Children," Joe Ogburn, who presented his 14th speech on "Are You Understood?" and Robert Hamilton who gave the No. Two speech in the Toastmaster's manual, "Farming In The 80's." The traveling gold cup went to Shepherd, of Concord, for the best speech, a humorous address. All speeches were timed and evaluated by experts who checked grammar, appearance, delivery, and even counted the "ahs."

Jean Dover of Shelby, Area 44 Governor which includes the Foothills Club, Catawba Valley Club at Hickory, Dover Club at Shelby and Statesville Club, was a special guest. Mrs. Linda Sutton of Greenville, recent winner of "Toastmaster of the Year" in her local club, was voted the best master evaluator at the meeting. Toastmaster's clubs throughout the world number 3500 members. In 1973 the club membership was opened to women.

Miss Dover said that although Toastmasters International has expanded and advanced the guiding purpose of the club has remained unchanged. That purpose, she said, is to train action people to communicate better.
