Town Honors Scott

The late Scott Carrigan, an 11-year-old former Kings Mountain resident whose determination to play baseball after being stricken by leukemia taught everyone in his hometown of Ocala, Fla., a lesson in courage, will long be remembered by those in his hometown who are associated with little league baseball.

In simple ceremonies Sat., Apr. 24, the people of Ocala named and dedicated a baseball field after him.

The Clyatt Park Little League Parents Association conducted the ceremonies. Several league boosters and city officials took part.

Scott, son of Bill and Pat Carrigan of Ocala, and grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Carrigan of Kings Mountain, was an outstanding pitcher in the little league for three years prior to his death last fall.

After learning of his disease the winter before, he told his parents he would return to the diamond and through a lot of hard work and determination, he did just that. He pitched another full season before his death.

A plaque recognizing Scott was unveiled and will be permanently displayed at the Clyatt Park baseball field. The plaque reads:

JONATHAN SANDERS

Jonathan Is Two

Jonathan Robert Sanders, son of Mr. and Mrs. David R. Sanders of Shelby, celebrated his second birthday, Thurs., April 29.

He was honored on Sat., Apr. 24 with a party at his home. Twenty-five friends and relatives gathered to enjoy a Big Bird cake made by his aunt, Linda Martin.

Jonathan is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Ben R. Sanders and Mr. and Mrs. Loyd Blanton, all of Kings Mountain, and great-grandson of I.J. Arthurs and Walter Whitaker, both of Kings Mountain.
