Bishop Shaw Challenges Teachers At Talks Here

Bishop Herbert Bell Shaw, 6th district, A.M.E. Zion Church, told the Vocational Teachers of the Specialized Educational Division of the N. C. Teachers Association that we are the architects of tomorrow's world and that the students of our schools will be the builders, here Friday.

He charged the preachers and teachers of yesterday with the direct responsibility of the present world. He told the teachers that their responsibility to mankind was next to that of a minister and called upon them to accept this responsibility with making the world better by molding lives dedicated to the service of God and man.

He attributed the present condition of the world to the fact that men have not walked uprightly, with settled convictions, well-defined principles, a steady invincible purpose, a single aim, turning neither to the right or left, moving forward toward a chosen goal. He emphasized the fact that society had a blue print that was without a plan, purpose and principle.

He was fearful that people were drifting on the sea of life without chart or compass, driven by winds, tossed by the waves, and finally floating with the current. He closed by giving the teachers his conception of their duties to the student, to the community and to the nation. "Teachers should as-

Ligon String Ensemble In Concert Here

The senior high classes of Ligon were given a wonderful message through melody in their recent assembly program by the Ligon High School String Ensemble. Miss Lucille H. well, teacher of string music, conducted the group through a series of compositions by some of our best known composers.

The evidence of response to good teaching was indicated by the continuous flow of harmony as it fell like a waterfall and came everyone to marvel at the ability of the performers to play so well the beautiful pieces of composers such as Bach, Mozart and Kern.

The String Ensemble played the following compositions: Break Forth, O Beauteous Heavenly Light, and My Heart Ever Faithful by J. S. Bach; Melodies by Joseph Hayden, arranged by Woodhouse; "Rondo" by W. A. Mozart; Smoke Gets In Your Eyes by Jerome Kern; La Spagnola by Di Chiara, Over the Rainbow, arranged by Merle Isaac; and Blue Moon, arranged by Merle Isaac.

The program was sponsored by Miss M. B. Bugg's homeroom, 11E.
