Institute Of Mental Health Opens Apr. 11

HAMPTON, Va. — "Preventive Mental Health in Early Childhood" will be the theme of the fourth Mental Health Institute to be held Saturday, April 11 in Clarke Hall at Hampton Institute.
Dr. W. Caron Ryan, Kenan Professor of Education, emeritus, University of North Carolina, and Marguerite Belafonte, a former early childhood educational director of New York City, will be the consultant-speakers at the one-day meeting.
Dr. Robert M. Rith, director of psychological services at Hampton Institute, will preside.
Sponsored by the college in cooperation with the Lower Peninsula Mental Health Association and the Tidewater Pre-school Association, the program of lectures, panels and discussions is planned to be of interest to elementary school and preschool teachers, to parents and to others concerned with early childhood problems.
Registration will be held at 9:15 a. m. in Clarke Hall followed by a hospitality hour.
The first session will open at 10 a. m. with Mrs. Belafonte speaking on "The Psychological Aspects of Mental Health in Early Childhood." Dr. Ryan will serve as discussant for this meeting.
An open discussion following this meeting will consider the questions, "What are the primary psychological needs that are evident in early childhood years?" "What is the effect on behavior in early childhood years of the introduction of group experience in school on patterns of living established by the family?" and "In early childhood what are the signs of disturbance in normal patterns of mental health?"
Dr. Ryan will speak on "Techniques of Education which Aid in Preventive Mental Health," at the second session at 1 p. m. with Mrs. Belafonte as the discussant.
The open discussion following the second meeting will consider the problems of what psychological needs of the child are fulfilled in the school? what psychological differences are occasioned for the child as a result of the pressure and stress of school experience? and how can group learning experiences be used to help children by meeting their needs and enabling them to master stress?
The final session will feature small informal group consultations with the speakers at 3:20 p. m.

House Owner Gives In To Del. Boycott

COLLINS PARK, Del. (ANP) — Mr. and Mrs. George Rayfield have decided to move out of their $12,000 suburban home, under the pressure of bigoted neighbors and white customers of Mr. Rayfield who have lately boycotted use of his garbage collection trucks.
Rayfield reluctantly told reporters that many of his white customers hired other trucks to remove their garbage after learning that he had moved into the all-white community of 400 homes.

A big part of the job is to translate the technicalities of the social security law into everyday language, a good way to develop your speaking and writing skills.
