Pan American Day At Ligon

The 69th anniversary of Pan American Day and National Library Week were observed at Ligon High School April 14th in a combined assembly program given by grade 7-11 history and 8th grade Spanish classes with a few guests participating.

The purpose of Library Week was given by Mrs. R. B. Hamlin, child consultant of the Richard E. Harrison Library, who spoke on the theme of the week, "Wake Up And Read" and displayed several new books on the countries of the Pan American Union. She was introduced by Patricia Marshall.

A panorama, "Greetings from Pan America" was presented by the 7th and 8th grade classes with the help of Ann Ransom and Chinita Trotter. Spanish students of the senior high school. Outstanding characteristics and products of each of the 21 republics were presented in Spanish and English with a display of their flags and resources.

The flags were artistically designed by an 8th grader, Robert Brown and completed by the 7th grade class members. Comments made by the representatives of each republic emphasized some of the goals of the O.A.S. charter namely, "To promote, by co-operation action their economic, social, and cultural development."

Special features of the panorama included the presentation of Senorita Berta Maza Socarras of Cuba who lectured on the resources of her country. A Mexican folk song, "Chiapaneas" was sung and played by the 7th graders with percussion instruments. Cara Nina was rendered as an Auto Harp Solo by Robin Alexander who was accompanied by Reginald Smith at the piano.

A special committee to investigate the activities of the school, specially since its activities are interracial and integrated.

In rustic cabins and lodges, under trees and beside the lake shoreline, people have been listening to lectures, engaging in discussions, living integrated, making things of beauty, writing poetry and participating folksongs and dances. They have been painting, trying to make art with cameras and brushes, and fashioning crafts work.

Here folks forget about grades and credits and the cares of life in order "to move into high gear" of living abundantly.

The director of the unique school is Myles Horton, while the workshop director is Mrs. Septima Clark, former South Carolina Negro school teacher, who says that "I have spent all my life teaching citizenship to children who really aren't citizens."

Persons who want to experience a "rebirth of spirit" and new zest for living, should attend one of the 959 summer workshops scheduled on Campus Leadership (April 2 to 5); Community Services and Segregation (May 17 to 29) including week-end conference (May 23 - 24); Registering and Voting (June 21-26); Community Leadership and Integrated Housing (July 19-24); Workshop for Foreign Visitors over Labor - Day Week End; and Human Aspects of Migration (October, 1959).

THE LILLIAN W. JOHNSON MEMORIAL CABIN, was purchased by funds contributed by friends of Dr. Johnson and money left to the school in her will. One of the South's great women pioneers in educational fields, a founder of one college and president of another, Dr. Johnson in 1932 turned over to Myles Horton her mountain-top home which today serves as the main building of Highlander Folk School.

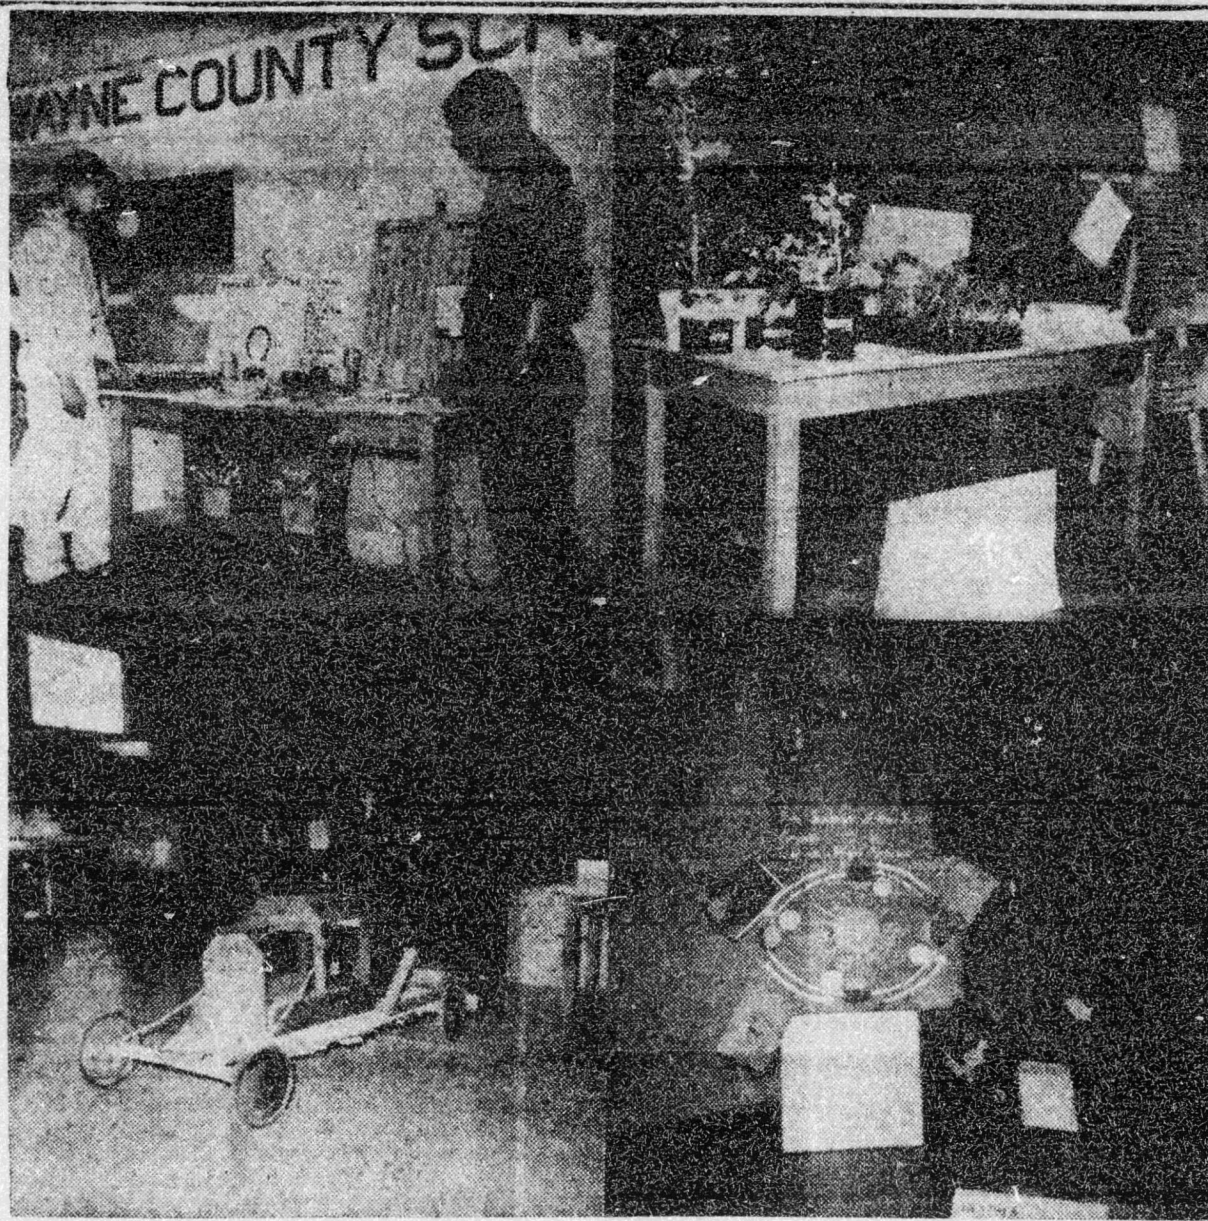

At the age of 90, Dr. Johnson wrote from Bradenton, Florida, saying:

What Highlander did for me was to accustom me association with people of a class and a race I had not known before, except as they served me. The industrial worker, and the Negro became personalities in their own right. I saw beneath the externalities and came to have a better understanding of their problems.

In turn, people who study at Highlander continue to gain inspiration and courage from the life and works of Dr. Lillian Johnson, who died in 1956 at the age of 92.

FOLK SINGING, established as a symbol of Highlander by the late Zilphia Horton and always a source of inspiration, was led during the year by Shirley Flint and Guy Carawan. Shirley Flint was invited as a workshop participant to lead singing in Charleston, S. C., and at a Methodist Area Conference in Orangeburg, S. C., late summer.

The work of Highlander is not confined to the community of Summerfield in which it is located, but it reaches out and serves wherever there is an urgent need. A beautiful story of its work is interwoven in the St. Johns Island Story (South Carolina). Through the leadership of Septima Clark, workshop director, the registering to vote rose in one year from 210 Negroes to 316 persons.

GOLOSBORO HOMES — Our correspondent, J. H. Graham, in the Wayne County area, submitted the above photos of homes in Goldsboro. On the left is the new home of Mr. and Mrs. John Earl Williams, Carver Heights; and the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Sylvester Lane, 1107 N. James Street, is on the right.

Ligon PTA Installs 7 Officers

The J. W. Ligon Parent-Teacher Association concluded the 88-59 school year Monday night with the installation of new members and a conducted tour through a science exhibit prepared by Ligon students.

The retiring president, Mrs. Sadie Griffith led the P. T. A. in history. Under her leadership the P. T. A. received an award for its large membership, was instrumental in the obtaining of a much needed street light, settled outstanding debts, made numerous other contributions to help local and international situations.

In her last message as President, Mrs. Griffith gave sincere thanks to the many people that helped to make her job successful.

H. E. Brown, principal of Ligon made his annual report as a part of the last meeting. He emphasized the importance of the P. T. A. as a part of the total program of the school.

He outlined the program of the P. T. A. in connection with the school's facilities, instructions and activities to create a good learning atmosphere. Mr. Brown concluded by saying, "We must believe this fact, that intellectual development and scholastic achievement of our boys and girls must be kindled and nurtured in the home."

New members installed were: president, John Curtis Washington; vice-president, Hilton Riddick; assistant secretary, Mrs. S. C. Johnson; treasurer, Miss Maye Ligon; parliamentarian, George Newell; historian, Mrs. Viola High; chaplain, Rev. Howard Cunningham. Mrs. Marguerite Cooke was retained as secretary.

Warrenton News

ARBOR DAY CELEBRATED

WARRENTON — Friday, April 17th, was a red letter day in Warrenton. Arbor Day was celebrated throughout the county. The Little Pansies Junior Garden Club contacted Mayor W. H. Miles who proclaimed April 17th officially as Arbor Day. They later contacted Mr. J. R. Peeler, supt. of Warren Co. Schools, who also favorably endorsed the Arbor Day idea.

The supt. sent copies of the history of Arbor Day sent to him by the Junior Gardeners and urged each school to have a tree planting ceremony. Consequently throughout the county Friday, April 17th, Arbor Day was celebrated by planting trees and shrubs.

The Junior Garden Club had an impressive ceremony on the campus of John R. Hawkins Elementary School. They planted a pink dogwood tree in honor of the late Mrs. Fannie Byers, mother of Principia J. E. Byers. Following an Arbor Day prayer by Miss Hazel Johnson, the vice-president of the club, Miss Mommie Tunstall presented the tree to Mr. Byers who accepted it as a living memorial to the memory of his mother. Mr. W. H. Kelly, elementary school principal, made a speech of dedication. Also appearing on the program were Miss Thomsense Scales and Mr. Carl A. Lorenz, local nurseryman.

Prior to the tree-planting ceremony the Garden Club group presented a short program and movie in the school gymnasium. The club is sponsored by the Town 'n' Country Garden Club. Mrs. E. M. Brown and Mrs. E. W. Harris are advisors to the junior group. Miss Welda Williams, popular senior in the local high school, is president of the club.
