Negro Is Elected Regional Veep At Young Republican Conclave

DENVER (ANP) — The election of a Negro as regional vice chairman of the National Young Republican federation climaxed the five-day convention which was held here recently.

John H. Smith, a Detroit construction inspector, was chosen to supervise all Young Republican activities in Michigan, Ohio, Illinois and Indiana after Negro delegates refused to accept any jim-crow position.

Smith defeated Wally Steffan, YR state chairman from Columbus as an interracial Georgia delegation, led by Mr. and Mrs. Timothy Gilham, Atlanta, led all southern Young Republican delegations—except Mississippi—in supporting the Negro candidate.

Smith is the first Negro to serve as regional officer.

Charles Gaines, Chicago out-going Negro vice-chairman at large, led the move to abolish the jim-crow because, he said, "I had nothing to do."

All other vice-chairmen supervise activities in two to four states for two years, but the vice-chairman at large, who has been a Negro since 1948, had no states to supervise.

After Gaines recommended abolition of the vice-chairman-at-large, Gilham withdrew as candidate for the position and asked the mixed Georgia delegation to support Smith as head of the Fifth region, which includes Ohio, Michigan, Illinois and Indiana.

The issue was taken to the floor when Ohio refused to go along with the plan and ran Steffan against Smith. With Negro delegates William O. Stewart and Gaines of Illinois lining up support for Smith, the Negro's election was assured. PATRONIZE OUR ADVERTISERS

Philosophy degree on June 8, at the ninety-second commencement exercises of Drew University, Madison, New Jersey. His major field of study was the sociology of religion.

The subject of his doctoral dissertation was, "The Interaction Between Protestant Churches and Their Social Environment in the Inner City." This study evoked such enthusiastic interest that plans for publication are in process.

Dr. DeLaney is a native of Summerton, South Carolina and is married to the former Miss Mae Ola Reynolds of Dawson, Georgia. For the past five years, Mrs. DeLaney has been assistant professor of education at Virginia State College.

Dr. DeLaney received his secondary education at Grooms academy, Sanford, Florida, where he was valedictorian of his class in 1936. He was graduated with honors from Morehouse College in 1940 with a major in religion and a minor in education. He was ordained to the Christian ministry from the Friendship Baptist Church, Atlanta, Georgia in 1939. Theological studies were completed at the Colgate-Rochester Divinity School from which he received the B.D. degree in 1943. The M.A. degree was awarded by Drew University in 1950 with a major in Christian Sociology. In 1951 he received a certificate from the Yale School of Alcohol Studies.

In pursuit of his advanced studies, he was the recipient of several fellowships, namely, an Ezar Squier Tipton Fellowship, Drew University, 1953-54; Summer-Grant-In-Aid, Southern Fellowship Fund for study at Drew Union Theological Seminary, 1956 and in 1957-58 he was an Opportunity Fellow of the John Hay Whitney Foundation at Drew University.

He is a member of the National Association of Colleges and University Chaplains and the Society for the Scientific Study of Religion; a member of the N.A.A.C.P. and a member of the Martin Street Baptist Church. He was president of the Shaw chapter of the North Carolina Teachers Association, 1956-57.

Dr. DeLaney was listed in Who's Who in Colored America in 1950 and in the Directory of American Scholars in 1957. He has contributed articles to Town and Country Church, namely, "The Dawn of a New Day for Sharecroppers," "Forward With the Lord's Acre Plan," "Christian Missions and the Credit Union," and "Christian Community Builders." Other articles include: "The Negro Rural Church Faces the Future," in Farmers' Federation News.

HOME-SEWER CALM, COOL AND FASHION COLLECTED FOR SUMMER

By Evelyn Cunningham

SHIRTAIST FOR SUMMER — In search of cool comfort, front-tie bodice bowing at the waistline adds fashionable detail to this full-skirted dress with notched collar. Yours for the making in linen, washed silk or cottons. McCall's Pattern #4917 in Misses sizes 10-20, 50c.

One of the smartest ways to look cool and composed during the hot summer months is to wear a "cover up" dress. Contrary to popular opinion, a strapless, revealing dress does not necessarily make the wearer any cooler. Usually, these latter dresses don't even give the illusion of comfort and composure.

Be that as it may, however, most women frown on wearing too revealing dresses on city streets. As much as they would like to spend every hot day in short shorts, they know that they must conform, and they try to reach a happy combination of comfort, coolness and social acceptance.

EMBROIDERED TRIM VARIETY for summer classic. Dress with nine-gore skirt, cuffed short sleeves and collarless bodice is fun to make and wear. Ingenious bit of trim is the embroidered cotton band inserted in alternate panels near the lower part of the skirt and circling the waistline. Wonderful in printed cottons, dacron and cotton mixtures or striped cottons. McCall's Pattern #4546 in Misses' sizes 10-18, 50c.

The summer shirtwaist dress is a classic. Tried and true, it is never out of style. It offers freedom of motion and simplicity. It is wearable for many, many occasions and it is always correct.

The full-skirted lime green dress with the front tie is a cousin of the shirtwaist. (McCall's Pattern No. 4917). The bodice is fitted and the four-gore skirt has unpressed pleats. The ends of the front tie are sewn in the side seams. The notch collar is cut in one with the front bodice and the sleeves are cut in one with the back and front bodice. The pattern also carries pieces for a slim skirt. Made in misses sizes, this pattern lends itself to many fabrics. Ideal as a summer print, it would make a wonderful fall opener in tissue weight wool or flannel.

The other dress of blue and white ticking (launders beautifully) is amazingly easy to make. (McCall's Pattern No. 4546). It is practically mistake-proof, even for those sewing for the first time. The nine-gore skirt pieces are straight, and gathered at the natural waistline. The short sleeves are cuffed and the fitted bodice collar is Four self buttons close the back opening. An ingenious bit of trim are the embroidered cotton bands about the waist and near the lower part of the skirt. Ribbon or lace may be substituted, or simply a contrasting belt may be used. Any of the cotton and synthetic fabrics may be used for this pattern.

Weekly Fashion — Sewing Tip: Don't, if you find one seam longer than the other, slice off a bit at the end. If one side is longer, you have stretched it in handling.
