Raleigh's Rev. Carson Happy Over New Idea

Conceived By Members To Elevate Zion Ranks

Rev. W. D. Carson, pastor, Rush Memorial A. M. E. Zion Church, is happy over the fact that the officers and members have come up with a program that tends to put Zion Methodism back into the front ranks of the church life of North Carolina's capital city.

One of the first signs is the fact that they have developed a fine junior church and the pastor takes delight in giving them a special sermon. He plans his sermon as a story and the children are vitally interested in the way he presents it.

A junior trustee board was recently appointed and will augment the work of the official trustee board. Rev. Carson works on the theory that every member should be given a job to do in the church and this will "serve to create a greater interest."

Another feature is the fact that the church news is reported weekly to The CAROLINIAN newspaper by Mrs. Annie H. Thorpe, veteran churchwoman. These members and friends who happen to miss a Sunday are kept informed by reading her column.

At Western Michigan U.

Professor Cecil N. Coble Now Attending Geobotany Sessions

CECIL N. COBLE

Cecil N. Coble, professor of science at St. Augustine's College, left the city on Monday for Western Michigan University at Kalamazoo, to attend a summer conference in geobotany. He was chosen because he qualified as representative from this area.

The conference, which is to last for two weeks, beginning July 31, is one of 19 experimental short-term conferences for college teachers of biology, geography, geology, and conservation. Financial assistance is provided by the National Science Foundation for about 550 college teachers.

Subject matter will be presented through a series of 12 organized lectures by specialists in each phase of geobotany, taking up in turn the geological, the botanical, and the practical conservationist's viewpoint, each to be followed by a discussion or question-answer period.

Mr. Coble is a '33 graduate of St. Augustine's College. He received his M. S. degree from North Carolina College at Durham in Geobotany. For three years (1935-39) he served as president, and is now treasurer of the National St. Augustine's Alumni Association.

Through The Years Tuttle Center Has Fostered Good

The Tuttle Community Center, a Settlement House in East Raleigh was started as an experiment by the Episcopal Church in 1931. The program in the little three room dwelling had outgrown itself in its first two years of existence. It survived on small membership fees, occasional donations, sales of used clothing given by the Church women, scrap iron, paper, rags, bottles and pink lemonade. Two public programs a year were given where adults and children participated.

The students from the Bishop Tuttle School of Social Service and Religious Education and one paid settlement worker constituted the staff along with community volunteers. This project was a good example of producing smiles by the mile, for there was much happiness for all ages. The older men's singing group never missed a meeting night regardless of weather, nor the Senior Mothers' missionary group. There were children from one to young adults.

Often people speak with great warmth of the Community Circus, how they learned to dance, sew, cook, do crafts of various kinds, wade in the small sprinkle wade, which was Raleigh's first water facilities for Negroes. The sprinkle wade was given in 1932 by the Interfraternal Alliance.

Today the Center has grown in size and strength of service by the help of Raleigh Citizens through the United Fund. Its program includes a licensed nursery school for children of working mothers, day care for children before and after school, sports, playground activities, crafts, homemaking, girl scout, brownie program, garden club, community club, civic groups, music groups and a most active golden age group whose membership is on the increase.

Through friends and the United Fund the center area has grown from one lot to four and the three rooms to seven. The staff from one paid worker to six and an average monthly attendance of over 5,000.

Tuttle Center is grateful to the people of Raleigh, through the United Fund for making tremendous contribution toward reducing crime and promoting good citizenship.

The board of directors of the United Fund Agency are as follows: Miss D. S. Lane, Mrs. Harlan C. Brown, Mrs. Laura Wimberly, Dr. B. Taylor, Mrs. Sara Brower, Dr. James A. Boyer, Attorney F. J. Carnage, Rev. P. H. Johnson, Dr. Nelson L. Perry, Mrs. Herman Taylor, J. W. Eaton, Mrs. A. E. Brown, Mrs. W. O. Yarbrough, Mrs. W. C. Davenport, Mrs. V. K. Newell, Mrs. Archie Henderson, Rev. I. Harding Hughes, Miss Bertha Richards (honorary member).

Mitchell Chapel AMEZ Church Boasts One Of Best Sun. Schools

PITTSBORO — Mitchell Chapel A. M. E. Zion Church, considered one of the largest Sunday School attendance in the state, pastored by Rev. V. Horton, can boast of the fact that it outstrips many metropolitan churches, in that it has one of the largest Sunday School attendance in the state.

June Alston, who has served as superintendent for more than 30 years, credits this record to the fact that transportation is made available to those who would not come if they did have the church bus to pick them up.

The collections attest to the fact that there is much interest in the Sunday School. The officers feel that when less than $50.00 is collected that they have had a bad day. The record shows that many of the members who plan to be away on a given Sunday send as much as 55 cents for the offering.

Every fourth Sunday, a special service is held for the junior church. There are times when more than 200 young people attend these services. The services feature a guest speaker and special music. The pastor chooses a subject that not only gives information to the youngsters, but creates quite an interest.

DON'T SURRENDER OR RUN; FIGHT ON

ROCKY MOUNT—Consider this department thought from the Greensboro, Ga. Herald-Journal via the Sunday (Rocky Mt.) Telegram: "Many a man says he has a home in heaven, but he has plenty to do before the titles are cleared." On the other hand, a female member of a "shouting" religious sect commenting upon the restrictions of another "cult" leader regarding unattractive women's attire said this: "I don't think the Lord requires that women should dress in such manner while the men look their best." She added, "If it takes that to enter the Kingdom, I'll just have to live until I die." There's merit in both statements, we think.

After a week in Philadelphia, Atlantic City and New York, this native Tar Heel who has lived all but eight months of his life below the Smith and Wesson line—as bad as it is at times—does not strongly recommend that colored people made a mad rush to the northern cities, unless, of course, the Kluxers are on your trail.

It was agreed by NAACP's Roy Wilkins, New York's Mayor Bob Wagner, Congressman Adam Clayton Powell and others who spoke at the final NAACP mass meeting to an estimated 20 thousand people, that although the South is bracing like a mule against giving the Negro his equality (much less integration), the North is no paradise for him because she, too, is dragging her feet in every area of civil rights.

Take Philadelphia for example. Wayland Temple Baptist (25th and Columbia Ave.) pastor, Rev. Clarence Smith, told us that it is virtually impossible for an uneducated man to get a job with the City of Philadelphia, no matter how deserving his case may be—nor even as a helper on a garbage truck! Reason is, Dr. Smith stated, the City hires all employees thru civil service and those who cannot pass a highly competitive examination are not even considered.

Thus, there's no future for the unlettered person—man or woman. A respected lady who taught school years ago declared she is doing domestic work because "there's nothing else I can get to do now due to my age."

So, the only thing Negroes can do is to not surrender their fight for full and complete equality under the law and to exercise our right and privilege to use of the ballot and accept our accompanying responsibility for helping to maintain a stable honest government on the local and national level.

We cannot surrender to bigotry, prejudice, (our own or that of others) lack of industrious living or be forced from our jobs because of laziness. We must dig down deep and stop saying we'll quit a job for any little frivolous reason because
