WITH THE FARM WOMAN

BY MAIDEE MORRIS
(Items this week from: Mitchell, Tyrrell, Alamance, Anson, Hertford, and Lincoln Counties.)

JELLY MAKING
Jelly making time is here and Mitchell County Home Demonstration club women have learned the art of successful jelly making. Mrs. Mary Margaret Dayton, home economics agent, says the women have learned that fruit must be gathered at right stage of maturity; over cooking of fruit destroys pectin; jelly should be cooked in small quantities; good jelly can be made without the use of commercial pectin and a Jel Meter test is a must to determine definite sugar-juice proportions. HDC WOMEN JOIN 50 PER CENT CLUB Tyrrell County women have joined the 50 per cent club. That is, buying wash and wear garments that have 50 per cent of a man-made fiber present. This assures the buyer of a successful wash and wear fabric. According to Mrs. Ann Davenport, home economics agent, the synthetic and blend fabrics were discussed, as well as how to buy and care for the material. FARM HOUSE CONVERTED

The F. A. Needhams of Alamance County can be proud of the work accomplished on their farm home. Working together they have completely restored an old farm home into a modern house with natural charm which reflects the personality of the Needhams. Miss Katherine Millissaps, home economics agent, says that Mrs. Needham is just as capable of operating a farm tractor, keeping records, and helping her husband with long-range planning as she is in running the home. GLADIOLUS GROWING

Mrs. James Martin of the Red Hill community in Anson County is interested in growing gladiolus commercially. Mrs. Ada P. La-Pozza, home economics agent, reports that Mrs. Martin has a sizeable flower garden and has spent time working with gladiolus. With ample area and water supply, Mrs. Martin is interested in growing gladiolus could be pleasurable and profitable. The world is not interested in the excellent excuse you have for your failure to deliver the goods.
