"The re-opening of the schools here and the renewed stability in the community have created a situation in which he feels he can turn his duties in the Gazette to others," Heiskell explained.

Gazette publisher Hugh B. Patterson, Jr. said the Gazette and its owners were fortunate to have an editor of his capacity in time of crisis in Arkansas.

"He was able to forcefully express the Gazette's basic policies in a period of rising emotion and contributed greatly to the solution of our school problems which is now in sight. These policies will remain unchanged," Patterson said.

Then the drunks proceed to another section where they mix the Sierno with a soft drink usually an orange or grape soda, and drink it.

Last Thursday, while patrolling the section a police officer spied two inebriates as they headed for the "jungle," armed with a can of Sierno and a soda.

Since they had not violated any law he relieved them of the Sierno and ordered them to vacate the premises. Apparently broken-hearted and disillusioned, they obeyed.

Recently a man lay in the rain for four hours during a heavy thunderstorm, the willing victim of "heat." When the effects of the Sierno wore off he woke up drenched and coughing.

The new headquarters of the "heat" drinkers has not been ascertained, but it can be safely assumed that there is one somewhere.

Their attorney said they would not return to public schools here and would not accept a new Negro school in Yancey County.

The Yancey County School Board, however, maintained its stand and turned down the appeals for reassignment to white schools.

CITIZENS IMPLORE TIGERS

(CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1) change and that negotiations have advanced to a point where it is almost impossible to stop. Plans have been made to include Raleigh in the Tigers' barnstorming tour before the opening of the 1960 season.

The Tigers' organization, the only professional Negro team in the state, has a two-fold purpose. One, providing championship baseball for fans in the area, and two, developing and producing young talent for major league organizations.

Last season was a success in both respects as the Tigers finished third in the league and sent Don Bush, third baseman, Al Rouse, pitcher, and Kenny Free, catcher to major league organizations.

In Virginia: Juror Quits When Denied Cafe Service

FAIRFAX COUNTY, Va. — (AP)—Leslie R. Coates, 52, stepped down as a member of the Fairfax County grand jury last week when he was denied service in a courthouse restaurant which served his fellow panel members.

Coates, a dairy farmer, explained his move, saying: "I stopped work on my farm to serve on the grand jury, and when I went to eat I was treated like I was not human—I did not feel like being humiliated further."

Courthouse officials said Fairfax County operates one food service line in the basement cafeteria and white patrons eat in the same large room where the food is served—but Negroes eat in a smaller room across the hall.

Taxpayers complain when Coates is told by the dining room manager, Francis M. Dolwick, that other facilities have been provided for Negroes.

Miss Catherine E. Stroud And Lloyd W. Harris Plight Troths

In the First Congregational Church, Saturday evening Sept. 12, Miss Catherine Elizabeth Stroud, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Stroud, Sr., of 307 Cannon St., and Lloyd William Harris, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Harris, of Alexandria, Va., were united in marriage. The Rev. Howard Cunningham officiated.

Wedding music was presented by Miss Ada Jarnigan, organist, and Mrs. Bernard Rogers and Mrs. John Flemmings, soloists.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a gown of candlelight Peau de Soie featuring an empire bodice with Portrait neckline of Chantilly lace, embroidered in seed pearls, eridescents and crystals. Hand-made roses and leaves of self material with medallions of beaded lace formed sprays of the very full skirt and Chapel-length court train.

Her two-tiered fingertip veil of French illusion fell from a queen's crown of rhinestones and she carried a bouquet of bridal roses and stephanotis centered with orchid on a white prayer book.

The bridesmaids were Mrs. William Knight of Washington, D. C.; Miss Eleanor Bonner of Raleigh; Mrs. Harold High of Raleigh and Miss Cledia Glenn of Washington, D. C.

The little flower girl, cousin of the bride, Chacona Winters wore a full length dress and hat, a duplicate of the bridesmaids was in pail gold, who carried a basket of flowers and dropped rose petals. The bridesmaids carried bouquets of chionanthus in mixed fall shades tied with satin ribbons to contrast with their gowns.

Beside man was the groom's brother, Sherman Harris of Fort Belvoir, Va. ushers were James Mordeca, and Carlton Stroud, brothers of the bride and also Nelson Kearney, Bernard Rogers, and Felts Lewis, brother-in-law of the bride.

The brides mother wore a full length sheath of naive pink lace with beaded neckline, with matching accessories and a purple orchid corsage.

The groom's mother wore a blue lace dress with matching accessories and purple orchid corsage. After a short honeymoon, the couple will live in Washington, D. C.

Mrs. Harris is a graduate of Shaw University and North Carolina College, in Durham. She is a member of Iota Phi Lambda Sorority (Alpha Gamma Chapter) and is employed by the Metropolitan Police Dept., and is assigned to the Woman's Bureau in Washington, D. C.

Mr. Harris received his education in Virginia and is a former Marine Sgt. an Elk. He is employed by the Metropolitan Police Dept. in Washington, D. C.

Elks Honor L. S. Wilcox, A Well-Known Local Resident

The Daughters of the Progressive Council of the 5th District were the guests of the J. E. Baxter P. E. R. Council as they met in a Goodwill Conference here on Sunday, Sept. 13.

An opening of the conference, Chief Antler Bro. L. S. Wilcox, presiding, spoke of the lack of understanding which is affecting the cooperation of the members of the Elk organization.

He exhorted those present to make the conditions in the movement pleasant enough and to live by the principles of the order so that cooperation may be realized. Later he declared the meeting open for general expression.

Miss Addressa Brown Married At Raleigh

Street, September 16. Miss Marguerite Raines was the bride's only attendant. An officer equal in rank to the groom, A/IC Paul Lee served as best man.

The couple spoke their vows before the Rev. L. S. Penn. Mrs. E. Coffield played the nuptial music.

Mrs. Womble is the daughter of Mrs. Geneva P. Brown, a school teacher in one of Raleigh's public schools.

In the 1959 Elks Beauty and Talent Show held at Atlantic City last month, Mrs. Womble rose from among 14 contestants to capture the "Miss America of Elksdom" crown.

A sophomore at Talladega College in Alabama, Mrs. Womble returned to continue her college work last Friday.

J. W. Yeargin: Baptist Layman Honored At Sunday Church Service

A special feature of the Sunday morning service at First Baptist Church was a tribute and presentation of a Gold Plaque to J. W. Yeargin in recognition of his services as chairman of the Board of Trustees of the church for twenty-one years.

Mr. Yeargin, at church conference, on April 29th this year, surprised the body when he tendered his resignation as trustee because he felt that younger men of strength and vision should be given the opportunity to serve in this capacity.

W. C. Davenport, who presided over the ceremony, pointed out in his tribute, that under Mr. Yeargin's leadership as chairman, the physical plant and value of the church property were greatly expanded. Included in this expansion was the purchase and construction of the church parsonage; the purchase and remodeling of the Roger's property site, now called Bullock Building; the remodeling of the choir loft and chancel.

Also the installation of the air-condition unit and the public address system; the installation of a modern kitchen, and numerous other improvements. Mr. Davenport reminded the church that in the interim of pastors, Mr. Yeargin headed a financial campaign which cleared up all outstanding debts and obligations of the church and upon his resignation left a balance of approximately $3,000 in the bank.

The committee selected by the church to arrange for this ceremony, requested that his family be with him for this occasion, and much to Mr. Yeargin's surprise all members of his immediate family were present. They included his only son, Asst. District Attorney J. M. Yeargin, now chief of General Session's Court Bureau of New York City, and his six daughters and their families, as follows:

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Jones and son of Greensboro; Mr. and Mrs. James H. McCullers and family of Philadelphia, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Broome of Florence, S. C.; Mr. and Mrs. Lee Otis Reid and family; Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Bailey, and Effie M. Yeargin, all of Raleigh.

"The Only Day I Have" Is Presented At First Baptist

A superb dramatic performance by eight Raleigh residents last Sunday brought tears to the eyes of many members of the congregation at Raleigh's First Baptist Church and a realization of neglect of religious duty to the minds of others during Homecoming activities.

"The Only Day I Have," a moving religious skit, depicts a family which almost completely ignores the church.

A capacity audience witnessed the drama, which starred Mrs. Marlene Sanders Jones as Mrs. Clark, a society matron; Herbert D. Ellis, "Mr. Clark," husband of the matron; Miss Jean Debnam as "Helen," a daughter; Geraldine Williams, "Mildred," another daughter;

David Dolby as "Tom," a son; William Robertson as "Chester," "Helen's" boyfriend; Mrs. Dorothy Perry, "Mrs. Parks," also a society matron; and Delmours R. Ingram, "Mr. Rogers," the Sunday School Superintendent, who changed the course of the Clarks' lives.

Mr. Rogers was able to convince the family of the importance of the church and proceeded to persuade them to forsake a planned trip to the country and attend church and Sunday School.
