MIAMIANS FIGHT POOL JIM CROW

MIAMI, Fla. — The Rev. Theodore Gibson announced last week that the Miami branch of the NAACP has launched a drive against racial segregation in public swimming pools.

"If we cannot negotiate, we will follow the only recourse we have — to file a suit," he said.

Rev. Gibson said that several Negro women went to Manor Park Pool here recently, but they were refused admission. A white patrol called a police sergeant who told the women it was against the policy of the city to admit Negroes to the pool.

A conference with the Miami City Manager and the City Commission is being sought by officials of the NAACP.

SOVIETS READ NEGRO "FACTS"

NEW YORK — The U. S. Fact Book, published by Freedom Fund, Inc., an independent agency, is being read by Russians. Through it, they were introduced to the NAACP and American Negroes.

Printed in Russian, the booklet is distributed in the Soviet Union and other Russian-speaking countries.

Under a section entitled "The American Negro," accomplishments of the NAACP, starting with reduction of lynching, are listed.

"The Russian people are told 'progress is being made in solving the problems of the Negro.' The process seems slow to most Negroes, the booklet adds.

Seek Overthrow Of Liberal Clerics

JACKSON, Miss. — "We are convinced that the time has come when the members of our church must make a decision as to whether we are going to have a Bible-centered, spiritual message and program for our church, or are we going to let these liberal ministers change the church into a political and social service organization." This declaration came from the newly formed Presbyterian Laymen for Sound Doctrine and Responsible Leadership, headed by John Ames, a Selma, Ala. business man.

The group argues that an "ecclesiastical machine of liberal ministers has gained control of the leadership of the church here."

Chapters of the laymen's group have been organized in Memphis, Tenn.; Sumter, S. C.; and here. The group has been upset by the 1954 General Assembly report, which "praised the Supreme Court's decision regarding segregation and called upon the members of the church to help bring about the integration of the races within the church, the public schools and in the community life as a whole."

The laymen feel that the report did not represent the views of individual members in the church. "In reality, it was only the views of a small committee of liberals..."

"CASTE SYSTEM" WIDENS GULF

NEW YORK — Justice Justice Wise Poller said here in a speech that the American Jewish Congress that a "caste system" has developed in the North, creating a "widening gulf between whites and non-whites, between skilled and unskilled workers and between long-time residents and new immigrants to New York and other centers."

WORLD HAPPENINGS

TEACHERS CAN'T LEAVE S. AFRICA

PORT ELIZABETH, South Africa — The South African Government has denied passports to non-white teachers and non-white university students who have received grants to study in Britain and other countries. The Government said that "there is a shortage of trained teachers."

According to reports, there is usually a surplus of non-white teachers for the existing schools. It is felt that the Government is keeping the teachers and students in the country so that they may not assail South African segregation policies once they are in other countries.

The teachers do not say much about the situation because of fear of losing their jobs.

GHANA PROTESTS RACIAL BIAS

ACCRA, Ghana — The Ghana Association of University Teachers registered protests against racial discrimination in South African Universities in a cable to the South African Education Minister Oct. 22.

The cable followed a dismissal of six Africans in the Port Hare University College in Pretoria, South Africa on racial grounds. The cable said an attack on academic freedom and an imposition of racial discrimination in South African Universities was evidenced by the dismissal.

ADAMS VISITS NEW YORK CITY

NEW YORK — Sir Grantley Adams, Prime Minister of the West Indies Federation, ended a five-day private visit here last week. Sir Grantley discussed internal federation problems at a meeting of the Caribbean League of America on Sunday, Oct. 18. He also visited Edmondton, Canada before returning to the West Indies.

She called for a "broad and sweeping attack on the challenge that every large city in the nation faces — slums, discrimination and human neglect." She scoffed at segregation "imposed" on Negroes and Puerto Ricans in housing, job opportunities, and education.

Justice Poller said that the recent heavy influx of Puerto Ricans to New York and other large cities, along with the continuing northward migration of many Negro families, has created a pool of "cheap labor" that contrasts sharply with the high pay received by organized and skilled labor.

"This situation has served to widen the chasm between middle and upper economic groups and those forced to live in slum and ghetto areas by reason of color and inadequate income," she said.

TRADE UNION'S SPLIT SEEN

SALISBURY, Southern Rhodesia — The new Industrial Conciliation Act may cause a split in the South African Typographical Union, South Africa's oldest and most powerful trade union. The act decrees that from Jan. 1 all trade unions in the colony must make a provision in their constitutions for multi-racialism.

Registered both in Southern Rhodesia and the Union of South Africa, the South African Typographical Union has operated with its members separated racially under the Government's apartheid policy.

The Typographical Union's Southern Rhodesian branches have received a proposal from headquarters in South Africa that they break away and form a separate multi-racial union.

Members of the Typographical Union's governing board are expected to come to South Africa this week to present their breakdown plan to Southern Rhodesian members.

Mich. State Model For African Univ.

LAGOS, Nigeria — Dr. Namdi Azikiwe, Prime Minister of Eastern Nigeria, has chosen Michigan State University as one of the models for the new university to be opened in October, 1960 shortly before independence is proclaimed. It will be a laboratory of "human relations," Dr. Azikiwe said.

The United States government appointed Dr. Hannah President of Michigan State University and chairman of the Federal Civil Rights Commission, as advisor to the new African University. Other American advisers are Eldon L. Johnson, President of the University of New Hampshire, and Dr. Marguerite Cartwright of Hunter College, New York City.

Approximately $7,500,000 will be spent on the University. The money has been set aside from profits from exports of palm oil under a 10 year program begun in 1955.

2 CONGO PARTIES REJECT PLANS

LEOPOLDVILLE, Belgian Congo — Two political organizations here said last week they "prefer to die rather than accept" Belgian plans for the gradual independence. In the plan outlined by August de Schryver, Minister for the Congo, Belgium proposes to grant full independence to the Congo after a four-year trial during which new central institutions, to be set up next year after elections, would function.

The two parties declared in a written reply to the Belgian plan that the deSchryver plan would plan offers a "fictitious independence forever." They said the plan offers a "fictitious independence."

Girl Shot In White Man's Car

CHARLOTTEVILLE, Va. — An 18-year-old white packing house employe was held pending a hearing on a manslaughter charge in the shotgun death of a 16-year-old Negro girl in his parking car.

Deputies said Timothy E. Morris of Charlottesville apparently shot the girl to death accidentally with a 12-gauge sawed-off shotgun. He was held without bond pending the hearing.

When he heard a noise outside, Morris said he picked up the gun from beneath the car seat. It went off accidentally, he said, striking the Jones girl.

He drove her to a hospital but she was dead on arrival.

Solve a Crime BY A. C. GORDON YOU ARE THE DETECTIVE The worried-looking and red-faced landlady ushers you into one of the rooms on the second floor of her boardinghouse, and you see the body of Arthur Bradford, slumped over the chair, his head resting on the table beside a portable typewriter, an upset pinty lying nearby on the table with a mixture of pins, paper clips, rubber bands, and a half-consumed cigarette scattered about. You carefully extract a typewritten piece of paper from under the dead man's right hand, and read its message: "Dear Betty: This will probably be my last letter to you. I realize now that I can't escape Mike Collins, and I'm tired of running from him. He's caught up with me in this town, and very soon now I'll be dead. But before I go I want you to know I've tried to..." "Right through the heart," you remark, as you inspect the bullet wound. "He died instantly." "Isn't it awful?" exclaims the landlady, who is hovering in the room behind you. "He didn't even have time to finish his letter..." down in my sitting room, and I could hear him up here gapping away on his typewriter, when suddenly... the shot rang out. I was too frightened to move for several minutes... then I rushed upstairs, saw him here like this, and then I phoned you immediately." "How too much know about Arthur Bradford?" you ask. "Not too much. Only that he seemed a man of good habits, very clean and orderly about his room. Didn't drink or smoke. He came and went very quietly... never much to say. He's a month behind on his rent, but he told me earlier today that he would take care of it very soon." "Do you happen to know anyone by the name of Mike Collins, mentioned in this note?" "No, Mr. Bradford never had any visitors," she answers, then hesitates. "Say, I think that was the name of the man who telephoned yesterday while Mr. Bradford was out. I think I still have his phone number somewhere. Do you really think he..." "I'd like to talk with Collins," you interrupt, "but I don't think he's the murderer." "Why have you eliminated Mike Collins as a murderer suspect?" Since the landlady told you that the shot interrupted Arthur Bradford's typing, and since you have determined that he died instantly from the bullet wound in his heart, he could not have had time to pull the note from his typewriter as you found it. You suspect that the real murderer wrote the note in an attempt to incriminate Mike Collins—since, if Collins had done the killing, he would hardly have left such a note lying around to incriminate him. The half-consumed cigarette on the table, and the fact that Bradford did not smoke, might prove a good clue.
