African Student
Writes About U. S.
And Britain Areas

SYRACUSE, New York — The following are excerpts from an article written by an African student, Sulemani L. Sentumbwe, who is presently pursuing a course in journalism at Syracuse University.

"It must be appreciated that there is a difference in values and kind between the British and American systems of education. Thus, whereas an American professional baseball or football player, who earns a lot of money in his sport, would look back with much satisfaction to the hours he spent at a university being trained in a British university, the only parallel training he could manage to obtain would be that resulting from his personal effort and only during his spare time, at nearly entirely his own expense."

"Notwithstanding all this, I am quite convinced that acquiring education in the States is probably the best way in which any progressive African could prepare himself for a dedicated and proper role in Africa."

JAMAICAN SPEAKS ON LEADERSHIP

CHICAGO — "If the American Negro is to progress, he must stop resting on his laurels," the speaker of the Jamaican House of Representatives said in a talk here last week.

The Jamaican official, E. E. Coke, said "American Negroes have the economic and cultural opportunities but they are not utilizing their advantages."

Speaking of the West Indies Negroes, Mr. Coke said differences in color of complexion also prevent this group from banding together. "However, if all the colored people of America had the West Indies outlook, we would be prepared to take our proper place in the world."

In praising America and other countries for the coming of outside business and industry into Jamaica, Mr. Coke said "we appreciate all of this—but we are still for the American Negro." He assured his hearers that Jamaica would welcome American Negro business "pioneers."

STAMP HONORS
FAMED SURGEON

DANVILLE, Ky.—"The father of abdominal surgery," Dr. Ephraim McDowell, was honored Thursday by a commemorative 4-cent stamp in the "famous American" series.

Dr. McDowell was the first to successfully remove an ovarian tumor from a woman patient. The operation was performed in his home at Danville, Ky. Until that time, doctors considered that fatal inflammation would result from an abdominal incision.

Former Harvard
Prexy Blasts
"Complacency"

NEW YORK—(ANP)—Following his being given the Woodrow Wilson Award for "distinguished public service," Dr. James B. Conant, former president of Harvard University, told reporters he was shocked at the public "complacency apathy, and mental isolation" at the tremendous events unfolding on the Asian and African continents.

Dr. Conant called for a public re-education on the affairs which would affect the course of world history.

News

REV. MRS. N. A. FORD, PASTOR

On November 29th our worship services began with the early morning prayer meeting led by Mrs. Fayer M. White.

Sunday School began at 9:45 with Supt. Luther E. Perry officiating. "Saul Confronted By Christ" was the lesson for the Bible Class. Worship services began at 11 a. m. "Wayside Ministers" was the subject that Rev. Mrs. Ford so wonderfully preached to us and the text was found in St. Mark: 10:46-52. "Jesus was concerned for men of all faiths and stopped by the wayside to administer to them. So should we stop by the wayside to help the ones all around us who have their hands stretched out to us."

Jesus expects us to administer to the needs of mankind.

Visitors with us in our morning worship were Mrs. Wright and Mrs. Brandon, Fayetteville. The Youth Fellowship met at 8 p. m.

Evening worship began at 7 p. m. Rev. Mrs. Ford brought us another wonderful message on, "The Goodness of God Leading Men to Repentance." Visitors: Mr. and Mrs. Mack Evans. We welcome all visitors to enjoy our services with us and now extend an invitation to you to attend our services.

Music for both services was furnished by the senior choir, under the direction of Mrs. R. Hunter.

Church Notices and Activities

Tues. 7 p. m. The Pastor's Club will meet; Wed. 8 p. m. Mid-Week Prayer Service; Thurs. 7:30 p. m. Missionary Meeting; 8:30 Senior Choir Rehearsal.

KAMPALA, Uganda—(ANP)—The National Trade Union Congress decided this week to call a general work stoppage throughout this British protectorate in support of a strike by African railway workers.

"COMMERCIALS"
FOR NAIROBI

NAIROBI—(ANP)—The Kenya Broadcasting Corporation, which took over radio broadcasting here from Cable & Wireless Ltd., Oct. 1, introduced two innovations in programming within the past few weeks—the radio "commercial," and a series of hour-long discussion programs. Radio is still a major means of information, education and entertainment throughout the country.

In 1900, North Carolina's population was 90 per cent rural. By 1955, it was estimated that less than 30 per cent of all Tar Heels were farm residents.

More than 100 million bushels of U. S. corn were lost to the European corn borer in 1958.

WATER PROJECTS
CITED IN BUTHA

BUTHA BUTHE, Basutoland—Plans for a 400-foot-high dam to be built more than 9,000 feet above sea level east of here are taking shape, his colony hopes to supply electricity and pure water to the Union of South Africa, in which it is an enclave, if the plans succeed. It is also expected that industry will be attracted to Basutoland with cheap power and water.

A total cost of over $63 million has been estimated to complete the projects. Already a dirt track for four-wheel-drive vehicles has been opened leading to the dam site. Construction is to begin in 1962.

PRINCE PHILIP
VISITS GHANA

ACCRA, Ghana—(ANP)—Prince Philip, husband of Britain's Queen Elizabeth, received a roaring welcome when he arrived here last week by air for a week's state visit.

Prime Minister Kwame Nkrumah and Gov. Gen. Earl Listowel led vast crowds in colorful tribal costumes in welcoming the prince. Philip's plane made a 2,000 mile flight directly from Britain.

Last summer Nkrumah visited the Queen and Prince Philip at Balmoral Castle in Scotland.

POPE JOHN SPURS
AFRICAN CHURCH

ROME—Pope John XXIII announced on Saturday in the fourth encyclical letter of his reign that area comprising the Belgian Congo and Ruanda-Urundi had been transformed from missionary territory, with its own clergy. The area has been divided into eight archdioceses and twenty-nine suffragan, or subordinate, dioceses.

Four of the twenty-nine bishops appointed are Africans. The whole area is to be entrusted to African clergymen as quickly as the changeover can be effected.

In his encyclical the Pope expressed confidence in the native clergy at a time when "the aspiration of the peoples to self-rule and independence

YOU ARE THE DETECTIVE

The scene of the tragedy is the lakeside summer home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry L. Lyons, and you have arrived here early this morning in response to an urgent telephone call at 5:30 A.M. from Lyons. He ushers you into the living room where in the center of the floor lies the body of his beautiful, platinum-haired wife, a bullet hole in her chest. You walk to the mantel of the fireplace behind her, examining the electric clock on it—the glass smashed evidently by a wild bullet, the hands stopped at 10:35.

"I arrived here this morning at about 5:15, and found her like this," exclaims Lyons. "It must have been one of her jealous admirers. As you know, I'm a good deal older than she was... and she did have a wandering eye when it came to other men. Our maid back at our town apartment will probably tell you that we had a little argument yesterday afternoon, so I might as well give you the whole story.

"I complained about the men she was seeing behind my back, and she resented what she called my 'prying into her business.' One word led to another, and finally she packed up and said she was coming here to our summer place to think things over. I couldn't sleep last night at the apartment, and finally I got out of bed at about 3:30 A.M. and drove here, thinking maybe we could reach an understanding. I found her... like this."

You nod thoughtfully, then look out the window into the gray and bleak early morning. "I'm glad it isn't raining anymore," you comment. "Quite a rain we had last night until it finally stopped around midnight."

"That's?" says Lyons absent-mindedly. "We had a little rain in town yesterday afternoon, but there wasn't a drop of rain when I drove here early this morning."

You walk about the room, taking note of its luxurious furnishings and well-cared-for appearance. Then, as the police crew arrives with its photographic and finger-printing equipment, you ask Lyons if you might ride with him in his car back to town. As you step out of the house, it has begun to rain again and you both run through the downpour to Lyons' car. As he starts the motor and the windshield wipers immediately begin their rhythmic sweeps over the glass, you put a restraining hand on Lyons' right arm. "Just a minute," you say, "I have better have a police escort to headquarters for some intensive questioning."

"Why... what do you mean?" he splutters.

"What DO you mean?"

SOLUTION

You suspect Henry Lyons of murdering his wife. The fact that his windshield wipers began moving as soon as his motor started is evidence that they were on when the car was previously used. If he had driven to the summer home in the early morning, as he claimed, when there was no rain, the wipers would not have been on. Therefore, it seems he must have driven through the rain of the previous night, killed his wife, and then waited until early morning to phone you.

WHAT THANKSGIVING MEANS TO ME
BY CHINITA TROTTER

To me Thanksgiving is a time of world-wide thanks to our Creator for the bountiful blessings He has bestowed upon us. It is a time when we should gather together—whether around a large table with all the trimmings—or a cozy table for two for divine thanks.

We should at this time of year stop—and count our many blessings. Of course, most of us enjoy the familiar Thanksgiving turkey, but they are merely man-made symbols and should not be confused with the real significance of Thanksgiving.

To the Pilgrims Thanksgiving meant giving thanks for having been brought through the perils of another year. And we, living in such a complex society, with so many temptations, should do likewise.

Yet on the other hand, Thanksgiving Day is just another day, for every day should be a day of thanks.

SURE AINT

A boy was strolling through a cemetery one day reading the inscriptions on the tombstones. He came to one which read:

"Not dead, but sleeping." After thinking for a moment he replied, "He sure isn't fooling anybody but himself."

Formal 4-H Club work in North Carolina got its start from a Hertford County corn club organized in 1909.
