Miss Bettie J. Chislom, daughter of Mrs. Rosa Belle Chislom, 512 E. Edenton Street, became the bride of Junious Lee Stewart, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Stewart, recently.

The ceremony was performed at the home of the Rev. W. D. Carson, pastor of the Rush Memorial A.M.E. Zion Church here.

The bride's veil was shoulder-length, and she carried a white orchid with purple petals atop a white prayer book. Her dress was blue lace over taffeta, and she wore blue satin shoes.

Only members of the immediate families were present at the wedding.

Following the nuptials, the bride's mother entertained at a reception at the Bloodworth Street YMCA, which was attended by many of the couple's friends.

Both natives of Raleigh, the Stewarts will make their home in the city.

Mrs. Stewart is a product of Washington High School and Payne's Business College. The bridegroom attended public school here.

SCHOOLMARM VICTIM; SEEK GUN-WIELDER

A Thanksgiving trip to Washington, D. C.

It is believed that she did not have time to put her books down, before the fatal shot rang out and she fell mortally wounded. It is believed that the killer secreted himself in the room and when she entered, without any warning, in a handstand form blasted away. The position of the body, when found, gave the appearance that she had fallen asleep in a pool of blood.

She is said to have been found by her sister, Mrs. Mildred Batchelor, who lives next door, and a brother, William. The finger of accusation was pointed at Richardson immediately and the local officers began the search. It was discovered that he was no longer at his local haunts and apparently had departed for parts unknown.

The first clue as to his retreat was the fact that his car was found near Reynolds, an exclusive suburb, Sunday afternoon, at 4:45 p.m. This, however, did not shed much light on his whereabouts.

Persons close to the two had further reason to suspect the husband due to the fact that he is known to have not treated her dearly for sometime. Further information revealed that they had agreed to divorce some months ago and that he had taken a new place of abode. Sickness brought him down and he was taken to a local hospital.

It was when Mrs. Richardson visited the hospital and saw the ravages of the disease gripping his body that she decided to take him back, according to reliable sources. Once out of the hospital the alleged wayward husband began swinging more than golf clubs and her person was the target.

She is said to have told relatives and friends that it was more than she could take and that she took him to court. It was there that she got relief and he was ordered by the court to remain absent from the home and not to bother her in any way. She is said to have changed the lock on the door and by so doing felt assured that he would not re-enter her portals without her knowledge. Friends and relatives are at a loss to determine how the killer entered the house.

The Garner school teacher was buried in the First Baptist Church, Saturday at 3 P.M. with grief stricken relatives and sorrowing friends, hearing the Rev. Jerry Drake picture how death had robbed the community of a sweet life. Ralph was not there. He was conspicuously absent to the pleasure of the family and the dislike of the police. The couple had been married for a number of years and he had gained a wide reputation as a professional golfer at the East Winston Lake Park.

Now that she had paid the supreme price, only Ralph, can tell the true story of the life they spent together. Only the killer can tell how he stole into the house, with murder in his heart and contempt on his mind and snuffed out the life of this 36-year-old member of a prominent Winston-Salem family.

Richardson is alleged to have come here from Pinehurst.

Killed on involuntary manslaughter and sentenced to 18 months in State Women's prison Jan. 14 of this year. Officers said Mrs. Young had been released recently following partial completion of the jail term.

"FRIEND" OPENS FIRE
RALEIGH — Harris Hinton, 22-year-old resident of Garner is recovering from wounds he received when his "friend" opened fire on him with a .410 shotgun as he tried to leave a card game while abroad.

Hinton said he started to leave the game Friday at the house of Sam Holder, when Holder said he knew Holder fired his shotgun and hit him in the right waist and the lower part of his stomach.

Holder was charged with assault with a deadly weapon.

Garner Teacher Is Prey For Flim-Flammers

Necessary to divest themselves of all the money they had. He felt that the joy which would come from the contact with the girl would be of such a nature that they might lose their heads and the girls would take their money.

This sounded like a good gesture of protection against some hard-boiled girl or girls, whom they had not picked up. It was then that the trick was pulled. All real and all imaginary monies were supposed to have been put in a handkerchief and placed near a fire. It was then that the two fast-made friends look off for the wisest key stone.

The victim waited and waited, according to local officers, and when the men did not return in what he thought was the proper time, he became suspicious and it was then that he suddenly awoke and decided to check the handkerchief. And to his sad dismay there was the handkerchief, but the money had taken flight.

Local officers are still looking for the culprits and the victim is out of his money. There was speculation in some quarters that since they are using women and whiskey on men of knowledge thrifty widows and anxious girls, who would like to take a husband, could be their next field.

It is believed that they will use the ruse of knowing where to find a wealthy man and to show good faith they will ask that money be pooled. Beware lovers of wine, women and song and old maids and married please do not get caught by flim-flammers, at least by pooling your money.

Investigating officers said the children had apparently tried to shield themselves from the fire by crawling beneath a bed. The father, who was at work, came after Eddie Clark, a neighbor of the Downs, noticed the flames and gave the alarm.

The children's father rushed home and attempted to enter the four-room house, but was driven back by flames.

Federal Government would withhold aid to ADC Funds.

Seawell called Mitchell's ruling "ill-advised and erroneous." "It has not been the intention of this office to take this ruling... lying down," he said.

"Things have come to a pretty pass when a federal agent seeks through the promulgation of rules, to make invalid a state law designed for the protection of public funds being spent on the needy children of the state," the attorney general said.

Seawell said if his talks and court action failed, he would seek legislative relief through North Carolina Congressman to "uphold the rights of the several states, to provide means whereby public money may not be wasted in aid to dependent children cases."

not confined to Poplarville. The harm results to the United States and our standing before the world.

"We believe in a government of law, not of men. But one or two things like this make it hard for people elsewhere in the world to believe this.

"You hear a lot about states' rights. I believe in states' rights, but I also believe in state responsibility.

"It seems clear to me that if the states are going to discharge responsibilities to the extent of not even calling witnesses, like in the Poplarville case, then the Federal Government must consider something else."

It was learned that the FBI investigation cost the taxpayers $30,000. It was described by Rogers as one of the most complete reports he had ever seen. It is said to have identified certain men as killers of Parker. And FBI agents were ready before the grand jury.

Since the county grand jury turned its back on the case, the justice department will present it in the federal grand jury which meets January 4.

Approximately 1,600 spectators attended the affair and applauded each presentation as the young couples moved to a standstill at the appointed pivot spot.

Presented first was last year's queen, Miss Caroline Livingston, who moved to a fringe area beyond the space allotted for the ivy leaf.

PRESENTED NEXT was Miss Elaine Delores Johnson, the Miss Eltona queen. Following next was Miss Paula Jewell, out-of-town queen from Greensboro. Chief marshals with the two queens were John Dunn, Jr., and Gordon Fred West, respectively.

Misses Nancy Joan Iredell of Raleigh and Evelyn Walton Kennedy of Durham were the maids of honor. Attendants were:

Misses Matyre L. Latta, Raleigh; Marsha L. Goodwin, Durham; Carole Jean Chavis, Method; Leah E. Ramsey, Pittsboro; Patricia Andrews, Raleigh; Jean Leubetter, Dunn; Gloria Debnam, Raleigh; and Debora Saunders of Washington, D. C.

After being introduced, the queens and their courts proceeded to the stage where they viewed the individual presentations. They were seated on the stage banked with greenery.

Each debutante was met at the foot of the steps (leading from the stage to the auditorium floor) by her chief marshal, who escorted her to her place in the figure.

Upon completion of the introductions, 71 debutantes formed an ivy leaf tuss climaxing this traditional figure.

Then Dr. W. R. Strassner, president of Shaw University, gave the official welcome to the North Carolina debutantes.

J. D. Lewis was the official announcer who introduced each of the 71 girls. Bobby Robinson and his orchestra provided the background music. They also played for the dance which followed the ceremonies.

THE ROUND OF EVENTS held for the girls included two dances at the Berry O'Kelly High School gymnasium, a breakfast dance at Chavis Heights followed by a luncheon.

Executive secretary was Mrs. Audrey Hunter Logan. Mrs. Anne Goode Fulford was the honorary chairman.

The cover for the printed program was designed by Mrs. Fannie V. Latham.
