Buying Power Sought As

CAROLINIAN Introduces Appreciation Money

$50 In Cash To Be Given Each Week

Names Will Be Selected At Random From City Directory

Beginning with this edition, The CAROLINIAN is introducing a unique feature, known as Appreciation Money, directed mainly at its subscribers and readers in the interest of increasing the purchasing power of the general public, in the interest of CAROLINIAN advertisers.

In the Appreciation Money feature, there are five names tucked away in ads to be found on page 12 of this week's newspaper. One of those names may be yours. If so, the management of The CAROLINIAN will deposit $10, in your name, in the business in which your name appears.

It is necessary for you to come to The CAROLINIAN, identify yourself and we will take a photograph of you. Then you may go to this business and pick up your money.

It is up to you as to what you do with it. All you have to do is identify yourself by 12 noon on Mondays of each week that your name appeared.

If you don't find your name this week, find the name of someone you know. Phone him or her and tell them about Appreciation Money and that they have been chosen for a $10 award. It's a $10 favor that'll be appreciated.

Patronize all of the advertisers which you find on this Appreciation Money page.

ONE STORY OF POVERTY - WASHINGTON: A mother and three children huddle in kitchen of their St. Louis apartment, with its crumbling ceiling. After an inspection, City Welfare Department officials condemned the building and sought new quarters for the family. (UPI).

Shaw University Makes First Cutbacks In Faculty Members

Reports have been circulated recently that Shaw University made its first faculty cutback last Wednesday, cutting some ten members from the faculty effective at the end of the tri-semester.

Rumors circulated that these 10 members were sent letters last Wednesday informing them they wouldn't be needed after the end of the current tri-semester which ends April 23.

Cleon Thompson, provost, said his office recommended the cutback of ten faculty members, eight from the Department of Arts and Sciences and two from the Department of Urban Sciences.

Thompson said, however, "It is up to President J. Archie Hargraves to make the final decision and to send out letters of dismissal. "The names of the people recommended to be released were not released by Thompson.

Horace M. Cayton, dean of schools of arts and sciences, told a CAROLINIAN reporter Wednesday morning "I feel the SEES "HEAP OF HUMAN BLIGHT" - NEW YORK: When Dr. Effie O. Ellis, special assistant for Health Services of the American Medical Association, considers problems of America's children, she sees "a heap of human blight." "Dr. Ellis, seen in this recent file photo, said in an interview, "Their quality of life leaves a lot to be desired." "It is reflected in the rising incidence of drug abuse, venereal disease, aggressive behavior, runaways, emotional instability--including suicide, and the battered child." (UPI).

Caucus Says No To Bus Amendment

WASHINGTON, D. C. - In its statement of opposition to the proposed Constitutional Amendment to prohibit busing, the Congressional Black Caucus last week declared that "quality education for all Americans should be sought first instead of "rewriting" the Constitution with negative limitations on the right of states to seek the best ways of improving our schools."

Rep. Louis Stokes, D-Ohio, Caucus Chairman, said for the

FOUND NOT GUILTY OF MURDER - ST. LOUIS, Mo.: Ivy Baxton, 62-year-old construction worker for most his life, is shown during recent interview with United Press International. In his first encounter with America's judicial system, Baxton spent 17 months behind bars awaiting trial for a murder a jury agreed he did not commit. The experience left him destitute. (UPI).

Sen. Muskie Rebukes All Army Spies

WASHINGTON, D. C. - Sen. Edmund S. Muskie (D-Me) Has called domestic spying by the Army an outrage, and as President, he would create a Domestic Intelligence Review Board to regulate and restrict the gathering of information about Americans.

Not content with attacks on dissent, the Senator said recently in New York City, our highest officials have also weakened fundamental constitutional liberties. Referring to Sen. Sam Ervin's (D-NC) revelation that Sen. Muskie, along with other Senators and Congressmen have been the subject of army spying, Sen. Muskie said, who among us is still safe when national leaders are subjected to prying and surveillance.

"The government which was created to serve the people," he said, "should not be allowed to spy on them at will."

The Senator said a Domestic Intelligence Review Board would destroy all governmental dossiers and material which is not reasonable essential to the public interest.

As President, Sen. Muskie added, he would also direct the Board to make available to all individuals any file on them not clearly related to national

BULLENTIN!

A jury, impounded by Wake County Coroner Marshall W. Bennett for 2 p.m. Wednesday of this week to determine the guilt or innocence of Mrs. Geraldine Perry McCall, 2908 E. Davie Street, involved in an car accident which claimed the life of 7-year-old Henry Bryant Reddick, Jr., last Friday afternoon, found no probable cause for charging Mrs. McCall at 3:15 p.m. that day. A seated jury made the decision.

CRIME BEAT

From Raleigh's Official Police Blotter

SHOPLIFTING DRUGS: Male offender or offenders is sought in the public interest with an alert involving shoplifting in common. Wanted are individuals have reported they have shown the aforementioned their finding on the police blotter. This we would like to do. However, it is not our purpose to be judge or jury. We merely publish the facts as we find them reported by the arresting officers. To keep out of the Crime Beat Column, simply mind your own business. Reported by a police officer in reporting the Shoplifter write on duty. To simply keep off the "Shoplifter" and you won't be in the Crime Beat.

BEATEN by CAUCASIAN

Charles Hunter, 2210 Van Dyke Avenue (Oberlin), told Officer H. V. Johnson at 8:00 p.m. Thursday, that Donald Ray Adams, 20-year-old white resident of 435 Halifax Street, entered his house and "started hitting me about the head and face." A warrant was signed by Hunter and Adams was "hauled off" to Wake County Jail on an assault and battery rap. Hunter suffered a cut on his upper lip.

500 Cheer H. Lee For US Congress

BY J. B. HARREN

TARBORO- Some 900 or more eager listeners heard Chapel Hill Mayor Howard Nathaniel Lee outline his plans for a "New Politics" that will give the people greater control over their lives and a new congressman who will go to Washington, D. C., and give to the people of the Second Congressional District a better way of life, particularly the farmers and the laboring people.

Before Lee spoke, two high school youths--one from Tar-

Financial Problems Of Schools On Agenda List

The United Negro College Fund will hold its joint annual meeting of members and directors in Raleigh, from March 13-14th.

Arthur A. Fletcher, executive director of the UNCF, said that the meeting will continue the practice of holding board meetings in a city where the UNCF has member institutions.

Shaw University and Saint Augustine's College, two UNCF colleges, are located in Raleigh.

On the agenda for the leaders of the Fund to discuss are matters pertaining to the financial problems of the schools, possible new avenues of loan assistance to students and greater cooperative planning among the member schools.

The UNCF consists of 40 private fully-accredited four year institutions. Some 46,000 students attend these schools.

What do you think can be done if anything, to save the downtown shopping area?

Mrs. Josephine Wimberly, Raleigh

"One of the main reasons I dread going downtown to shop is because of the terrible parking problem. I think the merchants in the shopping area downtown should try to do something about some free parking facilities if they want to save the downtown shopping area."
