

LOCAL GIRL

(Continued from page 1) Langston reported that both students were in EMR classes together. He stated that he checked with all teachers Wednesday morning and no type of incident was reported to have occurred at any time Tuesday while the students were in class. A CAROLINIAN reporter talked to the members of the Robinson family Wednesday about the incident and they were unable to pinpoint a reason for the shooting. They told this reporter that the time the incident occurred was a normal time for Diane to be coming home from school. "I asked Diane to come straight home from school but normally she stops at the store and talks to her friends before coming home," Mrs. Robinson said. "She would normally be on her way home from school about the time the incident happened. "I don't know anything about the boy who did the shooting or his family," Mrs. Robinson stated. "As far as I know Diane didn't have any dealings with him. Of course she is not dating age and no boys come to the house to see her. But before this incident I have not heard anything about this boy." Mrs. Roberta Durham, Diane's aunt who also lives at the same address, was the first one in the family to learn of the accident. She reports she received a telephone call about five minutes after three from a girl who described herself as a friend of Diane and told her about the shooting. While she was getting ready to go to the hospital, Raleigh police came by the house and told her to get to the hospital as quick as possible. Between intervals, Mrs. Durham reported she received several other phone calls from persons trying to tell her about how the shooting happened and each telephone call produced another version of the incident. When Mrs. Durham arrived at the hospital she learned that Diane was in the emergency room. "When I went in to see her, she was asking me where was her mother. I didn't talk to her at that time because I was too nervous." Mrs. Robinson arrived at the hospital around 6 p.m. and went in and talked to her daughter. "She was in full consciousness and I asked her what happened. She told me she was shot by a boy and I asked her if she knew the boy and she said yes, he was in her class. Then I asked her if they had been fighting and she never gave me an answer. By that time the doctors were there to take her up to the operating room." While Mrs. Robinson was still at the hospital, she said she received a call from one of the parents of the boy who is believed to have done the shooting. "I didn't talk to the parent but instead by sister-in-law, Mrs. Shirley Jarnigan, took the telephone call. She went by the parents' home and they told her they didn't know where or how he got the gun nor did they know where he was now. They said they didn't know anything of his whereabouts. They told her how sorry they were that the incident had happened. Mrs. Robinson visited her daughter early Wednesday morning but at the advise of the nurse did not bother to talk to her daughter about the incident any more. However, Mrs. Robinson did talk to the doctors at the hospital and they told her it would be some time before they were able to determine whether the operation was a success or not. "But at this time, I would have to say she is doing about as well as can be expected," Mrs. Robinson stated.

COLLEGE HEAD

(Continued from page 1) College officials admitted earlier this week the existence of a present cumulative deficit of $312,000. Student sources claim the situation is so serious that Voorhees may have to raise taxes. A major complaint against the present administration is that the present deficit has not been erased. Trustees point out that all predominantly black colleges are having financial problems. They say the outlook to reduce the deficit is good, but they admit they have not specific plans to raise the money. Voorhees is a 76 year old predominantly black college supported by the Episcopal Church.

He quit SNCC in 1967 and for a time was prime minister of the Black Panthers, but left that group in 1969 when they expressed willingness to ally themselves with white radicals. In the ensuing years he has taken up residence in the West African country of Guinea. He returned to the U.S. in November, 1972, as exponent of a "Pan-Africanism" philosophy which calls for increased awareness and acceptance by American blacks of the culture, heritage and ideals of Africans. Charlayne Hunter Galt sparked a national cause celebre as the first black woman to attend the University of Georgia, from which she was graduated in June, '63. She is currently on leave of absence as chief of the New York Times Harlem Bureau.

POLICE

(Continued from page 1) A North Carolina Central University student, Craig Bernard Parker, 20, of Rt. 1, Jacksonville, N.C., who was named in a drug warrant following a raid in December, surrendered to vice squad Sgt. J. C. Fuller at the Durham County Courthouse at 10:45 p.m. Friday, reports stated. Lassister said two other youths were arrested during the raid, but Parker was not at home at the time and had been sought for several weeks. Vice Squad Lt. Talmadge Lassister said uniformed police and vice agents observed one of the three men pick up a quantity of marijuana which had been left at the drop zone by unidentified persons. The car, allegedly driven by McGill, was stopped at the intersection of Umstead and Sawyer Streets at 8:30 p.m. and an emergency search reportedly uncovered 15 grams of marijuana, according to officers. McGill's 1965 car was confiscated and the three were jailed in lieu of bond for appearance at a preliminary hearing Feb. 28 in District Court. Vice agents reported they found "about a pound" of marijuana in a raid yesterday at the home of Charles James Barker, III, 19, at 903 Ferncrest Drive. "We recovered most of this from a commode in the bathroom. It wouldn't flush away," Officer R. L. Ray said, pointing to a large bag of marijuana allegedly belonging to Barker. Barker, a native of Rhode Island and listed as "unemployed," was jailed in lieu of bail for his appearance in District Court on Feb. 22 for a preliminary hearing. Four men were charged with "manufacturing marijuana" and possession of marijuana with intent to distribute when vice squad agents, assisted by County ABC officers, raided Apt. 11-H Charlestown Apartments at 8 p.m. Friday, reports stated. Placed under $5,000 bond each were Robert Waldron Driver, 19; Gregory Lee Brown, 18; Robin Derrick Willins, 20; and Ernest Lance Dickinson, 21, all listed as residents of the apartment.

Funds are to be allocated fairly among and within the states with assistance that is directly proportional to local needs. But no state shall receive less than $1.5 million in any fiscal year." The Employment Opportunities Act requires that special consideration will be given to the job needs of Vietnam-era veterans, a priority that Humphrey regards as "essential." "But the immediate and central goal of this program," he said "is the provision of badly needed jobs that are also of critical importance to our communities in their efforts to maintain and improve public services." Finally, the Humphrey employment bill draws upon provisions in the Employment and Manpower Act, vetoed by President Nixon in 1970, to authorize the establishment of a National Council of Manpower Advisors.

Even though Lincoln becomes a part of a central county hospital, joining with Watts in a $18 million dollar project, the conditions of the contract, set out the fact that the Lincoln Community Health Center, a federally supported clinic, serving the predominantly black, low-income community in southeast Durham, would be permitted to continue at Lincoln with the privilege of free housing, after the corporation took control of the hospital. The trustees of the County Hospital Corporation agreed to this stipulation until such time as the new hospital was opened.

In his address the mayor said Washington had "the opportunity not to become great, but the greatest of all cities in America. And if we can't do it, no city in America can do it." The Post's accolade to Mr. Washington concluded editorially, "In the days leading up to the start of his new term, Mayor Washington has shown signs that he is eager to reinvigorate the government and the community. His speeches have been lively, his mood confident and his agenda more ambitious. We are pleased by the prospects for unprecedented personal leadership on the part of Mayor Washington and hope that he will make the most of it."
