Ed Carson Orator At Saint Aug.'s

"The business world is filled with many stumbling blocks, some are aimed at no particular group, but most are being enforced against the minorities and the disadvantaged." This is what Edward Carson, executive director, Office of Economic Opportunity, Raleigh, told members and guests of the Phi Beta Lambda, and Delta Nu Delta Honor Society, business organizations at their combined first annual banquet, held in the Martin Luther King College Union at Saint Augustine's College last week. Carson said that a substantial number of minorities are dissatisfied with their career progress and the level of responsibility required by their jobs as compared with their abilities in the business world. He stated that many of the blacks in responsible positions in the business world do not know whether their near-term career goals will be met within the companies that employ them.

He said that blacks are not in the mainstream of management. They are few in decision making positions. He said that, in many companies, the concept of working their way up is futile for blacks. (See ED CARSON, P. 2)

The manager of a Raleigh service station allegedly shot a customer last Friday around 10:15 p.m. and the man who was shot swore out a warrant against, and the manager was arrested on an assault with a deadly weapon charge. The man jailed was 32-year old George Earl Alston.

The case came to light when Clarence Edward Smith, 26, 534 E. Lenoir Street, reported, "I went to the service station at 1130 Smithfield Street at approximately 10 p.m. and was in the store alone for a few seconds, while the owner gassed a car.

"When he came back into the store, he accused me of it." (See GUNS MAN, P. 2)

Angela Davis: 'Warm Woman Of Action'

(Editor's Note: The following is a continuation of an interview with female activist Angela Davis in a private session following her speech at Memorial Auditorium on April 16, conducted by Thomas H. (RX) Greene.

Q - What would you say is the challenge of the Black professional?
A - The Black professional is at a great disadvantage in this (American) labor market. I think Black professionals must learn to identify with Black workers. Blacks make up 30 percent of the labor force. Proper organization and management of Black resources is the key to economic strength and progress.
Q - What is your opinion of the need for reforming or replacing the present education standards to meet the needs of Black people?
A - Education of Blacks is, of course, a major issue, but there is no way to separate educational from the total system of American corruption. Black must organize their own institutions in order to control their own minds and futures.
Q - What have been your experiences in foreign travel (U.S.S.R. and Cuba)?
A - On Russia - most people think of the Soviet Union as being an all white nation. Few people realize that there are some fourteen other republics besides Russia within the Union, many of them greatly populated by people of color.
On Cuba - I found the remnants of racism in Cuba to be complete propaganda. They have absolutely eliminated the basic institutions for racism.

Campbell Says Help Was Here

BY MISS J. E. HICKS
The Raleigh Citizens Association held its regular monthly meeting at the East Hargett St. YWCA at 8 p.m. last Thursday. Ralph Campbell, RCA president, commented Councilman Clarence Lightner for his tremendous job in convincing City Council about the needs of using some of the Revenue Sharing funds in the community, especially creating the reserve fund. Mr. Campbell suggested that letters be written to the City Council acknowledging appreciation of their concern.

Lightner, in turn, commended President Campbell and Wake Opportunities for the fine job that they did in the community which also helped him in his effort to secure help from the City Council. Commenting further Mr. Campbell said that the poverty level in Wake County had been reduced from 39.4 to 22.7 in 1970 in Wake County. A lot has also been done at the state level. This summer, the City of Raleigh will sponsor a program employing 875 youths from a $344,700 fund. This is the largest amount which any other N.C. city will receive.

Other matters mentioned for support and interest were the location of the museum in the downtown complex and the report concerning the redistricting of the election of county school board members that will enable Raleigh citizens to vote for the members, but will no longer elect a member from Raleigh. Vernon Malone, Raleigh School Board member, was appointed new chairman of the Education Committee. New members will be added and the committee is expected to report at the next meeting. There was a lively discussion held regarding the detention of some Black junior high school students who were arrested and detained at Wake County Juvenile Home for four days without the privilege of being released to their parents.

Although there was no intention to excuse the misconduct of the students involved, questions were raised that only blacks were arrested. Concern for uniformity of action in such matters was expressed and should be transferred to the school board and police department. Facts in the case will be investigated and

A. Barnes Announces Intentions

DURHAM - Motivated by an impassioned plea to use the expertise of the NAACP, made by Mrs. Tommie Young, NCCU, and accentuated by a rip-roaring expose of the unfair hiring policy of the Register of Deeds' office, by Alexander Barnes, the youth and the adults of the Durham Branch, NAACP, decided to wage an all out war against the county's hiring policy, at its recent meeting.

Mrs. Young set the tone of the meeting when she told the audience that eternal vigilance was the price of freedom. Even though she chose to call her speech "just plain talk" and had it keyed to the youth, she had many admonitions about the freedom fight that struck at the very core.

She began by urging black people to stop going back into ancient history and picking up the trash and dirt that other nations had long since discarded and attempt to use it to build

CRIME BEAT

From Raleigh's Official Police Files

EDITOR'S NOTE: This column or feature is produced in the public interest with a aim towards eliminating its contents. Numerous individuals have requested that they be given the consideration of overlooking their listing on the police blotter. This we would like to do. However, it is not our position to be judge or jury. We merely publish the facts as we find them reported by the arresting officers. To keep out of The Crime Beat Column, merely means not being registered by a police officer in reporting his findings while on duty. So simply keep off the "blotter" and you won't be in The Crime Beat.
