New Trials Set For Ten-Angela To State

WILMINGTON - Another trial of black activists is set for June 18 in Superior Court here. It is part of a drive by federal and state authorities to stop the black liberation movement in North Carolina.

A protest rally to be addressed by Angela Davis will be held the night before the trial. People from all over North Carolina and neighboring states are being urged to attend the rally and the trial, which will be in the New Hanover County Courthouse.

The defendants will be the Rev. Ben Chavis, already under sentences totalling 34 years in prison; Ms. Mollie Hicks and her daughter, Leatrice.

They are accused of accessory after the fact of murder in the death of Clifton Wright during a protest against racial injustice in the schools here.

Wright and two other black youths, Jerome Nixon and Don McLain, were guarding the home of Ms. Hicks when Wright was killed. White vigilantes from the Rights of White People (ROMP) were patrolling the streets and threatening to shoot black people "like rabbits."

The state says that Nixon and McLain will be the chief witnesses against Chavis and the Hickses. In return, charges against the two will not be pressed. This is in line with a pattern followed in several recent trials of black activists in this state.

Jim Grant was given 10 years in prison in federal court at Raleigh on charges of helping two young men to run (See NEW TRIALS, P. 2)

Ex-Raleigh Pastor, Dean, In New Post

STAFF WRITER

Dr. Grady Demus Davis, former pastor of Oberlin Baptist Church here, and Dean of the School of Religion at Shaw University for many years, has been appointed to replace John H. Baker, Jr. on the State Board of Poles, according to official information from the office of N.C. Governor James Eubert (Jim) Holshouser, Jr. The Rev. Dr. Davis is presently professor of psychology at Fayetteville State University in Fayetteville, where he makes his home. He is also pastor of the Union Baptist Church in Durham. The salary is $21,000 per year, and Dr. Davis will be on leave, while he serves the state.

Reportedly, the decision to appoint Dr. Davis came in a wake of an earlier request by the Governor, asking Baker, ex-professional football star, who lives in Raleigh, to resign. Baker refused to step down and Holshouser stated last Thursday that he had "no intention of reconsidering" his decision to fire Baker. The Governor had also threatened Baker with the implied threat that he would fire Baker's wife, Mrs. Juanita Baker, who is the first black superintendent of the Women's Correctional Center here.

Holshouser's statement came last week in a response of area blacks, making a public appeal in behalf of Baker. Dr. Davis will take office on July 1. Dr. Davis is a strong supporter of Holshouser among the blacks of Cumberland County during the 1972 gubernatorial campaign, received his B.A. degree at Shaw and the B.D. at Andover-Newton Theological Seminary. He also holds the Ph.D. degree in the Psychology of Religion from Boston University.

He is a member of the Fayetteville - Cumberland County Chapter of the NAACP, a former member of the Raleigh Citizens Association and is now a leader in the

EDITOR'S NOTE: This column or feature is produced in the public interest with an aim towards eliminating its contents. Numerous individuals have requested that they be given the consideration of overlooking their listing on the police blotter. This we would like to do. However, it is not our position to be judge or jury. We merely publish the facts as we find them reported by the arresting officers. To keep out of the Crime Beat Column, merely means not being registered by a police officer in reporting his findings while on duty. So simply keep off the "Blotter" and you won't be in the Crime Beat.
