

Ashendorf Concert Features Pianist

On Sunday evening, October 14, at 8 p.m., pianist Georgi Riabikoff will appear as the featured artist in the Third Annual Rosalie Citron Ashendorf Memorial Concert at Temple Israel. He will present a program of light, familiar classics by Chopin, Beethoven, Rachmaninoff, Gershwin and other famous composers. The concert is open to the community and there is no charge.

Riabikoff

Mr. Riabikoff, winner of international acclaim, comes from a musical family related to Tchaikovsky and Rachmaninoff. He gave his first concert at the age of four. He pursued his studies in European conservatories and with the great composer and pianist, Sergei Prokofieff.

In New York, he has studied with Claudio Arrau and the great pianist and pupil of Rachmaninoff, Mme. Gina Bachauer, who wrote: "Of all the young pianists I have heard, I find that George Riabikoff has not only the best inborn musical talent, but also great poetry, imagination and temperament in his playing. He is different from the others, with something quite exceptional. His depth of feeling, his inner spark and warmth were acquired only through long suffering, which have made him a real and great artist. I am confident that he will have a great future which he so well deserves."

During World War II and the terrible years of Nazi occupation, he helped Jewish families and other persecuted people to hide and escape death. Trapped by the Gestapo, he refused to reveal their hiding places. The Nazis, knowing he was a fine boy pianist, swore that he should never play again and drove hot spikes through his palms, broke his arm and crushed his fingers. In spite of all tortures, he did not betray these people.

After the war, Riabikoff studied with Walter Giesecking and Conrad Hansen.
