

This 'n That

Ellen (Mrs. Howard) Cooper, medical librarian at Presbyterian Hospital, was recently installed as President of the Association of N.C. Health and Science Libraries.

Deborah Klein, 14, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Klein, has been accepted for membership in the Charlotte Youth Oratorio Singers.

Chad Klein, 8, son of Betsy Klein, and Ilana Klein, 6, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Klein, were featured in a new business film directed by their uncle, Robert P. Klein, "The Neighbor" for the Brunswick Corp.

Congratulations to Stephanie Russo, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Russo, on her being elected to the Teen Board of Ivey's. Steph is a senior at East Mecklenburg High School.

Kudos to the BBYOers who spent the summer in Israel and shared their experiences with the congregants at Temple Israel prior to Selichot services. Those in BBYO Discovery #1 group were Brian Bruck, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hy Bruck; Rachel Kaplan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Kaplan; Jodi Mond, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Irving Mond; Evin Somerstein, son of Dr. and Mrs. David Somerstein. Barbara Lash, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Lash, was in BBYO Discovery #7 group. Almost 300 teenagers from the U.S. and Canada visited Israel through the B'nai B'rith Youth Organization and on their last day they all met along with other BBYOers from the European countries and Israel for Maccabean game competition. What a wonderful time they all had!

Dr. Harry Chernotsky, an assistant professor of political science, was one of two UNCC professors named this year's winners of the NCNB Award for Excellence in Teaching. He received a check for $1,000 and a plaque from Chancellor E.K. Fretwell Jr. A committee of past recipients picks the winners from nominations by school alumni, students and faculty colleagues. Thirty-six faculty members have won the award—financed by NCNB—since the program began in 1968. Among the previous recipients have been Dr. Stephen Fishman and Dr. Harold Josephson. Chernotsky, 34, who joined UNCC in 1978, prepares students to compete in the National Model United Nations. UNCC students have won outstanding delegation awards there in four of the past five years.

Thoughts From Adrienne

It is very significant that my first article as Director of Jewish Social Services should appear during the month of Tishri, when there is a reaffirmation of our faith. For it is also time to reaffirm Jewish Social Services commitment to the Jewish elderly and their families in our community.

In the near future a geriatric needs assessment will be coming to each of you. I ask your cooperation in returning this to me. In this way, I can determine where time and energies should be spent to help provide the services our elderly and their families feel are lacking or need to be stressed.

Before the survey can be completed, I ask your assistance in contacting me personally if you are aware of a problem an elderly person is experiencing. Because I am new to the Charlotte area, I am trying to learn the community and its members. This takes time, and I would like to avoid missing anyone who could use our help.

In the short time I have been Director, I have been impressed with the warmth and caring of the Jewish community for its members. It is such a climate that helps create the necessity for Jewish Social Services.

Jewish Social Services has three major components: Serving the elderly person and their families; providing counseling for the unemployed or vocationally distressed person; and referral or assistance for persons experiencing emotional stress in their lives. All services are confidential.

Adrienne Rosenberg, Social Service Director.

The phone number for Jewish Social Services is now 364-6594. The hours are 9-5, Monday through Friday.
