Thank You, Paul

Just as Paul will learn to appreciate the meaning of the unintelligible sounds with which we "force feed" him, so we adults, too, may some day, with the grace of God, learn to appreciate the feeling of empathy, of peace, and of goodness that comes with prayer. Let's at least give it a try.

Holiday Recipes

Cont'd from p. 16

Buckwheat Latkes (pareve)

2 pkgs. dry or 1/2 oz. fresh yeast 1½ tsps. salt 2 tbsps. sugar ½ cup lukewarm water 2 cups cold water ½ cup melted pareve margarine 1 tsp. baking soda (dissolved in 1/2 1 cup flour 2 cups buckwheat flour cup cold water)

Dissolve yeast in warm water; add cold water. Sift together flour, buckwheat and salt. Stir in yeast mixture. Beat well until smooth. Cover and refrigerate overnight. In morning, stir in sugar, margarine and dissolved baking soda. Let stand at room temperature for ½ hour. Drop by spoonsful onto hot greased griddle or thick pan. As soon as pancakes are bubbly and puffed, turn and brown on other side. Makes about 32 pancakes.

Latke Making Tips

- * All latke recipes can be made lighter if that's the way you prefer them — by separating the eggs and adding the yolks along with the other ingredients. Whip the whites until stiff and fold into the batter before frying.
- * Calories in all these recipes can be reduced by frying in nonstick pans or in pans that have been sprayed with a nonstick product.
- * Cholesterol and saturated fat content of the recipes can be reduced by replacing eggs with egg substitutes or with two egg whites for each whole egg.
- Excess greasiness can be eliminated by having fat at the right temperature for frying (375° or hot enough so that a drop of water sputters when dropped into it) and by draining finished latkes on paper toweling.
